Boy Kidnaped by Gypsy Claims Three as Father

AN 'INFANT TERRIBLE' AT S.P.C.C. HOME

cks Shine of Visitors and Consigns Them to Warmer Regions

With two people fighting for custody, eight-year-old Russ Everett Smith is having a glorious time.

"Gypsy Ad," in the temporary ody of the Massachusetts S. P. C. C. pending the decision concerning his birthright, enjoys himself by kicking kindly visitors in the shins and claiming everybody he sees as his father and mother.

He now claims to have three fathers.

Clarence A. Smith of Dighton, who avers the child was stolen from him three years ago, he refers to as his old father.

Eugene Choquette, the gypsy, under arrest on a charge of having kidnaped and later abandoned the boy, he calls his new father.

And Joshua F. Hallahan, agent of the S. P. C. C., he refers to as his good father.

At the headquarters of the society on Beacon Hill Russell has developed into an infant terrible. A kindly

COMMITS SUICIDE BY ELECTRICITY

Rutherford, N. J., Oct. 16 (By International News Service). — The most amazing suicide on record in New Jersey was revealed here today when the body of George West, a 21-year-old gem cutter, was found in the attic of his home.

West had electrocuted himself. He lay down a steel plate, placed a copper plate on his chest, connected wires from a chandelier over his head and pulled the cord, releasing the current.

Holland-American Line Joins Fight on Dry Ship Law

New York, Oct. 16.—While counsel for the Cunard, Anchor, French and White Star lines were preparing arguments for their fight before Federal Judge Learned Hand tomorrow to obtain a permanent injunction restraining government officials from putting into effect the Daugherty dry ship ruling, the Holland-American line today announced it would join the ranks of the foreign ship lines to be represented before Judge Hand.

W. Van Doorn of the Holland-American line said counsel for the company would at once ask for a temporary restraining order. This action is a formality to permit the line to be represented at the hearing tomorrow.

BANS ELECTION DAY SMOKING IN CHURCH

Officers of Mt. Vernon Congregational Church, at Beacon street and Massachusetts avenue, complained today to Mayor Curley that their edifice was desecrated by election officers of Ward 8, Precinct 9, on primary night. They declared smokers threw cigar and cigarette butts around promiscuously.

As a result there will be no more smoking in any church the Mayor said.

GIRL SLAIN IN EAST BOSTON

Shot on Steps of Home by Her Cousin and Suitor, Who Is Dying

Josephine Genteli's sense of honor cost her life today. The nineteen-year old girl was shot and killed on the front steps of her home at No. 32 Bremen street, East Boston, by Lawrence Adessa, her married cousin, whose love she had repulsed.

Adessa, who has a wife and child in Italy, shot himself and is dying.

The girl feared death. She had stationed her little sister to warn her of Adessa's approach.

SENT SISTER AWAY.

Adessa, craftily scenting just such a stratagem, gave the little sister a quarter, saying: "Go and buy ice cream cones for us."

The little one, unsuspecting, trotted away gleefully. This left the coast clear for Adessa and left Josephine Genteli without the warning she had planned in case of need.

Adessa had threatened Josephine. She feared him. A letter found on Adessa had evidently been written by him, to mail to the girl. In this he threatened to kill her. But apparently he could not wait for the letter to go.

Meanwhile the girl made pitiful effort to guard herself. She worked in Cox' confectionery place in Orleans street. She asked her little sister to watch for her today, as she was afraid.

Little sister obediently took up her post today in front of the house. But she apparently thought no harm was near. Adessa suggested ice cream cones and held out a coin with which to buy them. Away she went.

LURKED IN HALLWAY.

Adessa lurked in the hallway. Josephine Genteli came along the street.

Two shots. The girl died. Two more shots. Adessa fell, fatally wounded.

Neighbors rushed up. Little sister came with the ice cream cones that cost her sister's life. Then the police. Dezzo was taken to East Boston Re

BRITAIN BALKS U. S. DRY NAVY

Washington, Oct. 16 (By the Associated Press).—Great Britain, in a communication delivered today to the State Department, is understood to have declined to agree to the suggestion of Secretary Hughes for a reciprocal extension of the right of search and seizure, so as to give the American prohibition navy jurisdiction outside the three-mile limit.

At the same time the British Foreign Office assured the American government that every precaution would be taken to prevent violation of the American prohibition law by rum smugglers under the British flag. It was said that Canadian and other port officials had been instructed to prevent, so far as possible, the issuance of fraudulent clearance papers.

YALE MAN TRAPPED BY RING

Eleanor Barnes Exposes Hub Gang and Then Seeks to End Her Life

By ERNEST T. JENKINS.

Springfield, Oct. 16.—The Boston American has found Eleanor Barnes, lure of the most highly organized blackmail band that ever operated in New England.

Shortly after she was discovered by this newspaper she attempted to kill herself.

She was caught in the act of blackmailing a Yale student.

Eleanor Barnes, alias Esther Wilson, alias Marion Saunders, alias Marion Barton, alias Mrs. George W. Harvey and alias many another names, under which she operated to fleece wealthy youths who sought experience, was rushed to the Springfield General Hospital, where her condition is said to be serious.

Two Springfield policemen are keeping a vigil by her bedside.

There are certain people in Boston who will, in all probability, cherish the uncharitable wish that Eleanor Barnes may not recover, for the reason that dead women, as well as dead men, tell no tales.

YALE STUDENT FALLS VICTIM TO BOSTON BLACKMAIL GANG

ELEANOR BARNES EXPOSES DARING RING; THEN TRIES TO END LIFE IN CELL

But this woman has already told her tale to the Boston American, and it will be printed in this newspaper from day to day, forming a narrative of blackmail activities that will involve a score of persons.

The Barnes girl was arrested in Hartford, in a raid on a lodging house, together with one of the callow lambs who had been fleeced but was destined to be still further shorn. She was released in bail of $100, jumped bail, fled to this city, was arrested again, lodged in a cell, and here attempted to kill herself by stabbing.

With Mrs. Blanche Paul as an aide d'amour, Eleanor Barnes was used by the Boston Blackmail Ring to bilk Albert Victor Searles, millionaire Boston artist, of $61,000. This goodlooking shakedown resulted from a party in the Back Bay to which Searles and his secretary, Captain Edward Austin, had been enticed by the two women.

At the time Eleanor was in the employ of a coterie of Boston lawyers who found that the legal practice of their profession was not sufficiently remunerative, and who undertook adventures in blackmail as a sideline. This proved to be so profitable that they gave up their law practice altogether and confined their talents exclusively to the business of trimming the unwily

DREW $50 WEEKLY.

At the time of her arrest Eleanor was still in the pay of these lawless lawyers, and was engaged in a "trick" that promised to net them many thousands of dollars.

The victim, whose wealthy father will probably be saved a considerable sum of money by this exposure, was Abraham Levy, a former Yale student. During his association with Eleanor Barnes, Levy took the name of George Lane.

Since her flight from Boston two years ago, following the exposure of the Searles trimming, Eleanor has been getting a drawing account of $30 per week from the "home office" in Boston. At the time that Mr. Searles decided to talk, it was proved that William J. Corcoran, then district attorney of Middlesex County, received $51,000 out of the blood money paid by Searles. He was later disbarred for his participation in the affair.

William J. Kelley, a Court street lawyer, and William J. Hartnett, were paid $10,000 by Searles.

It is a significant coincidence that Harris Levy, father of the twenty-four-year-old current victim of the ring, accuses a man named "Hartlett" of Boston of having gotten $500 from the boy through threats of exposure of his affairs with Eleanor Barnes.

He made this statement to the Boston American and to the Hartford police.

Had not the appetite of the swindlers who were blackmailing young Levy been too voracious, the father might have kept his silence. But the $500 was only "come-on" money. Father and son were given to understand that it would cost them many times that sum to preserve intact the good name of the Levys.

YALE BOYS ARE VICTIMS.

Young Levy was one of two former Yale students fleeced by the gang. Of the other, more later.

"The Barnes and Paul women arrived in Hartford last November from Detroit, where they had been in seclusion, following the Searles affair. In May Mrs. Paul underwent an operation at the Hartford Hospital. Following the operation the two women quarreled. They broke.

In July Blanche Paul left Hartford to make her home with a married sister-in Springfield. Recently she went to Peabody, where she is living with relatives.

Promptly after the arrest of Eleanor came a message from a firm of Boston attorneys to the effect that certain other Boston attorneys would fight her extradition.

The blackmailing of Levy was the direct cause of the arrest of Miss Barnes. It occurred in a lodging house at No. 70 Hopkins street, Hartford. When he learned that his son had been blackmailed, Levy senior decided to take a hand.

LAY TRAP FOR YOUTH.

He found that his son was constantly in the company of the Barnes girl.

About two months ago, according to the statement made by the elder Levy to the Boston American and the Hartford police, a man who called himself Hartlett came to Hartford, posing as a detective.

There, in the Hopkins street rooming house, was enacted the same little bedroom farce that Miss Barnes had figured in two years ago, when Mr. Searles was the leading man.

There was a party. Young Levy and Miss Barnes indulged in liquor. Enter "Hartlett," discovering the pair.

He threatened the arrest of the former Yale student. It appeared that he represented the husband of Miss Barnes. He was a very jealous man. If he found out about this wrecking of his wife's happiness, there was no telling what he would do. He was of a violent temper.

The student, dependent on an allowance from his father, pleaded. Eleanor wept. The detective was obdurate. He had been hired to get the goods. He had gotten the goods. Somebody had to pay him for his time and efforts. Would it be the husband of the tearful Eleanor—that violent-tempered husband who might kill if he were told the facts? Or would it be Levy?

It would be Levy.

PAID OVER $800.

All the boy could dig up at the time was $800. That went to Hartlett. It was the old "tip and toss," working in a particularly crude way, using a woman whose identity, had Levy known it, would have been sufficient protection for him.

Shortly after this, Abe caused his father some concern by asking for more than the usual allowance of money he was being paid. The father grew suspicious. He began his investigation several days ago.

The Boston American investigation disclosed that the Boston blackmail ring specialized in three stage settings to trim the unwary.

One was the "tip and toss," as outlined above.

The other was the dog-eared, but always effective "badger game," where the irate husband himself, gun in hand, broke in upon the amorous scene and demanded satisfaction in either blood or money, and compromised on blood money.

The third was the "I am about to become a mother" gag. Following an association of some weeks, the Barnes girl would go to her victim and with downcast eyes tell him that she was about to become a mother.

She had to protect her unborn child, of course, and if the victim would take care of it, all right. If not—he usually paid.

Blanche Paul, said Eleanor Barnes to the reporter, was particularly fond of the maternity gag, and worked it on a Yale student and two Hartford men, with fair monetary returns.

During this newspaper's investigation in Hartford, it was found that Eleanor Barnes changed her address four times. Each time she was located, and gave additional facts in her story.

She was afraid to go back to New York, she said, because she was wanted there for breach of probation. She was afraid to go back to Boston because the gang there had so much on her. And she was afraid of staying in Hartford because she was afraid of exposure which might come at any minute.

Hunted, scared, threatened, she decided, following her arrest, that safety lay only in one direction—death.

NEW RAID ON LEVEL.

"I haven't hurt anybody," she moaned at the hospital. "I've always hurt myself. Now they're trying to ruin me. If they take me back, I'll kill myself."

After the Boston American had found the Barnes girl for the fourth time, she fled to New Haven. She remained there for several days, and then returned to Hartford.

Before her departure she wrote a note to Levy, addressing him as "Dear George." She wrote:

"I've made up my mind to leave the city. Thanks for your many kindnesses. Don't worry, dear, everything will come out all right. I'll write you regularly."

Despite this farewell, immediately upon her return to Hartford, Eleanor sought the young man. There was a little party in the Hopkins street place to celebrate the reunion.

This time the raid was on the level. Real police staged it.

Both were placed under arrest.

Levy said:

"I never knew Eleanor was a blackmailer. I knew nothing about her past. At first I knew her only as Eleanor Barnes. Later she told me that she went under the name of Mrs. Marion Stanley and Mrs. John W. Harvey. She said her husband thought it funny, though, and was a salesman who traveled between New York and Boston. I that she referred to her husband as 'Billy.'

"Each week she received a registered letter from Boston containing $30. The name and address on the envelope was 'John W. Harvey, Highland avenue, Somerville.' But she always called him 'Billy.'

"She was always happy when those letters came, and used to say, "Well, my Billy hasn't forgotten me."

She said that "Billy" had not visited her for nine weeks, which coincides with the last time the mysterious Mr. Hartlett of Boston was in Hartford.

In succeeding issues the Boston American will tell the following:

How Eleanor Barnes met and was wooed by Frank K. Mansfield, wealthy New York silk manufacturer.

How she and Mrs. Blanche Paul, used as lures by the Boston blackmail ring, have lived by their wits and by their vamping abilities since their flight from Boston two years ago.

How gay parties and lingerie parades were staged in Hartford with students of Yale.

In this issue is printed her account of the famous Searles trimming.

Eleanor Barnes arrested in Springfield under assumed name she stubs herself with silver pencil while lodged in police cell.

Eleanor Barnes' Story of the Blackmailing of Victor Searles

Here for the first time is printed Eleanor Barnes' own story of how she and Mrs. Blanche Paul, working as lures for the Boston Blackmail Ring, got $61,000 from Albert Victor Searles, artist-millionaire.

"I first met Vic Searles through a man named Rogers, an engineer for the United Drug Company. This was four or five years ago, when he was poor and struggling. I could have been his wife and had millions at my disposal if I had wanted it. But I never cared for him or his company the way a wife should.

"VIC" COOKED MEALS.

"He has cooked meals for me many times at his apartment at No. 272 West Newton street. I admit I introduced him to Blanche Paul. This was when Blanche and I were living with Mrs. Comee at No. 35 Dalton street, Back Bay. Blanche Paul had lived there some time before I did, and it was when I went in this house is printed her acquainted with her.

"Searles will tell you," she said, "that I never tried to blackmail him on that famous raid at 309 Huntington avenue. Miss Boulister, now his wife, will also substantiate it. In fact I warned both of them against Blanche Paul.

"I said: 'Miss Boulister, you want to look out for your Vic. Mrs. Paul is out to get him. I'm not afraid of Mr. Searles. I know he's honest and will tell the truth.

DRUGGED BEFORE RAID.

"Blanche Paul's husband knows as much about the blackmail ring as she. She was living with him when she was supposed to be separated. She and her husband were in touch with each other all the time.

"I admit there was a raid, but I don't know very much of what happened. I was unconscious. Vic Searles always knew me as Eleanor Barnes, although I was married to Harold Barton and had a child, who died soon after birth.

"I went up there to the apartment on Huntington avenue, I admit, with the intentions of having a party, but not to blackmail. I was drugged. I was unconscious. In fact, I don't remember much of anything.

"I have always suspected who put the drug in my drink. Vic Searles took Blanche in another room. I was with Captain Arthur E. Austin. I took one drink, another, and then a third.

WARNED "VIC'S" WIFE.

"I don't remember another thing. When I came to, the Captain was rubbing my face and hands, and I was told there had been a raid.

"As a matter of fact I had a heart-to-heart talk with Vic's wife. Searles and the Captain called us up about an hour later to go out to dinner. We had a chicken dinner downstairs. But I was too sick to touch it. Finally Blanche, Vic and the Captain went to the theatre.

"Vic Searles' wife thought the world of me. I warned her many times, that although Blanche Paul was my friend I didn't trust her. I also warned Vic himself. He said: 'Well, I guess I can take care of myself. I'll take a chance.' He did, all right.

HE WORE PURPLE SOCKS.

"I was single when Vic Searles made love to me. But I didn't care for him in that way. And as Vic liked the fat ones, I told him to go to it.

"Gee! Victor was a funny duck. Vicky' used to wear light purple socks, light brown shoes, a red tie and a green suit, and when I met him on the street I used to nearly die. He was a scream. He was a travelling side show.

"Those purple socks. They made me scream. One day I said to him: 'Why do you persist in wearing those, Vic?' And he replied: 'Oh, those are Irene's, she buys 'em for fifteen cents a pair.'

"On the day I fled from Boston, my sister warned me to get out of Boston, that my second husband, Myron Greoms was coming from Binghamton to shoot me.

FLED AFTER WARNING.

"The telegram, as I remember it, read:

"'Dear Sister: Myron coming to Boston to harm you. Leave at once.' (Signed). 'Helen.'

"And Blanche Paul went with me.

"Certain people want me to say I have received money from a certain place. But I won't. Just because Blanche Paul has perjured herself, I'm not going to. She now says she never received any money. How about the affadavit she signed saying she had received money from Kelley?"

WILSON GANG CHIEF TRIED IN AUTO THEFT

John J. Sullivan, known to the police as "Jacky" Sullivan, and considered by the police as the real brains of the "Tug" Wilson gang, was placed on trial today before Judge Franklin T. Hammond and a jury in the Middlesex Superior Criminal Court.

With Jacky was Daniel Gray, his brother-in-law. Both were charged with the larceny of an automobile on November 29, 1921, from Mrs Florence A. Bateau of Quincy.

Gray lives in North Cambridge, and Jacky Sullivan once lived in Watertown. Sullivan was arrested in Portsmouth, N. H., and was brought to Cambridge to answer to a number of indictments pending against him.

District Attorney Saltonstall, who is trying the case, stated that Mrs. Bateau's daughter drove the car to Beattie Hall, Cambridge, the night it disappeared. The district attorney said he has evidence that Sullivan and Gray had brought the car to be stored in the shed of Levi Belben.

Levi Belben of No. 17 Elton avenue, Watertown, testified that Gray and Sullivan, whom he identified had brought the car to his place and had taken away the tires and storage battery before leaving it. Belben received $5 per month for the storage, which he said took place shortly after Thanksgiving.

Reading of the theft of the car in a newspaper, Belben said he investigated and found the number on the block of the engine had been ground off. The number plates were from Maine.

Robert Belben, aged twenty, employed by a milk company, where Gray also worked at one time, confirmed his father's testimony.

lief Hospital, for he was still breathing.

BOARDED AT HOME.

Adessa boarded in the Gentell home. Neighbors were aware that he had tried to make love to his attractive cousin and that she had scorned such attention.

Miss Gentell was reserved in her ways. Instance of this was cited after the murder today. One neighbor said:

"Josephine was at a party last night where they played kissing games. But, when she had to pay a forfeit Josephine would not let any of the boys kiss her."

As a cousin and a boarder Adessa had been allowed to go with Josephine to the movies and other entertainments. But Mrs. Maria Gentell, Josephine's mother, usually accompanied them.

Mrs. Gentell rushed downstairs after the shooting and tried to call her daughter back to life. The mother's dress was stained where she clasped the lifeless girl in despairing embrace.

ROXBURY CADET FACES TRIAL AS HAZER

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 16.—Just before, the assembling today of the naval court martial for the trial of midshipmen of the first class on charges growing out of the recent outbreak of hazing at the Naval Academy, Rear Admiral Henry B. Wilson, superintendent of the Naval Academy, today announced the names of two midshipmen of the fourth class who have been under treatment at the Naval Hospital because of the effects of the hazing. They are R. B. Pearson of Pell City, Ala., and W. H. McGregor of Bremerton, Wash.

The midshipmen to be tried first are Stuart H. Hawkins, Springfield, Mass., and Bruce Robinson, Chandler, Ariz., Hawkins is said to have compelled a "plebe" to eat his dessert under a "mess" table in Bancroft Hall, while Robinson is alleged to have put a new recruit through the physical exercise known as the "sixteenth."

Two other seniors are slated for trial for conniving at hazing practice. They are Thomas E. Boyce of Mount Vernon, Ind., and Thomas J. Casey, Roxbury, Mass.

It is alleged that they were the senior midshipmen at "mess" tables where hazing practices were indulged in and failed to report the offenses. Casey was senior at the table where Hawkins sat.

ASK BLOOD TEST FOR GYPSY BOY

old lady visited him today and eating him on the head said:

"My, what a nice little man!"

"Aw, go to hades," said Russell, administering a well-placed and vigorous kick.

PLAN BLOOD TEST.

A blood test may be the only way to decide the boy's parentage. Mrs. Smith, who claims the boy as her own, alleging he was kidnaped in 1919, says she is willing to have a blood test. Choquette also indicated his willingness to have a test made, but said it wasn't necessary.

State House records, he declared, will prove that the boy is the illegitimate son of his wife, Mrs. Gertrude Bedy Choquette, with whom he eloped and married in 1920.

He even asserted the father was Fred Roscoe, now believed to be living in or near Woonsocket, R. I. Roscoe, he said, was the cause of the girl becoming a State ward.

Choquette was arraigned before Judge Frederick E. Austin in the Taunton District Court on a charge of kidnaping.

Deputy Sheriff James H. Cash requested that bail be made as heavy as possible. The case was continued a week to permit of further investigation, and bond fixed at $3,000. Unable to furnish the bond, Choquette was taken to jail again.

His wife verifies his story in every detail, alleging that the boy is her son.

Mrs. Smith, meantime, introduced another angle of the case by stating it to be her belief that Choquette did not originally kidnap her son. She said she believed the boy was taken by her first husband, Joseph H. Monroe. Eleven years ago she got a divorce from Monroe, she said, on ground of unfaithfulness.

Jersey Vestryman Also Declares Wires Tapped in His Home in Death Probe

New Brunswick, N. J., Oct. 16 (By the Associated Press).—A charge that the telephone belonging to Mrs. Edward Wheeler Hall, whose husband was slain with Mrs. Eleanor Reinhardt Mills, a choir singer in the church of which he was rector, had been tapped, was the latest development today in the investigation of the double murder.

This charge was made by Sally Peters, who lives in the Hall household. She said that no important calls now were being made over it.

A similar charge was made by Ralph V. M. Gorsline, vestryman of the Church of St. John the Evangelist, who at one time was questioned as to his whereabouts on the night of the murder. Mr. Gorsline declared he was not greatly concerned about the wiretapping, as he had "nothing to conceal."

County Prosecutor Stricker of Middlesex also declared he had a good reason to believe that the wires leading into his office had been tapped.

Mrs. Hall, whose counsel has protested against what he termed bungling investigation which he asserted had turned fit-rounded suspicion against his client, had her porch lights turned on all last night. It previously was learned that she had surrounded herself with body-

Haverhill Man Stays Beside Her Deathbed as Fire Races Through Home

Haverhill, Oct. 16. — While fire raged in the home here of Joseph Le Blanc, the latter remained at the bedside of his dying wife, Eva, twenty-eight years old, until she had passed away.

Mrs. Ida Kyle, who lives beneath the Le Blancs, discovered the fire in an attic above the sick room, where, a few hours before the dying woman had become the mother of a son, Earl Joseph.

She gave the alarm, and while the firemen went about their work with caution, Le Blanc stood by his wife's side till the end. The child, a healthy boy, was removed to safety.

The fire loss was placed at $500.

Mrs. Le Blanc is survived by her husband, child and three sisters, all residents of Haverhill.

COFFEE AND SOUP FIGURE IN FAMILY JAR

Mrs. Sarah Shartman of No. 2 Auburn street was in Suffolk Divorce Court today. She charged that:

He put an antiseptic in her coffee.

He threatened to scald her with a bowl of hot noodle soup. She fainted.

He jabbed her in the arm with a finger so that he drew blood, which caused a serious infection.

In between he would beat her in the usual style. She desired a divorce, but her husband is to take the stand and give his version. The couple were married in 1900 and have three children.

RADIO TO TRANSMIT NIAGARA POWER

New York, Oct. 16.—Transmission of power from Niagara Falls to New York by radio is a possibility of the future in the opinion of Dr. E. F. W. Alexanderson, chief engineer of the Radio Corporation. This prediction followed the success of a sixteen-hour test of electron tubes in place of large alternators in transmitting wireless messages across the Atlantic Ocean.

Eagle Boat in Peril On Reef

Vineyard Haven, Oct. 16.—The Navy Eagle Boat No. 31 was fast on Sow and Pigs reef, south of Cuttyhunk island, today, with a navy tug and a light tender standing by to attempt to float her. Coastguardsmen from the Gay Head station went out to the boat to offer assistance. A heavy swell was running and the craft's position appeared to be precarious.

He is shown cooking a meal in the open. At top, leading members of the Hobo Corporation formed by Boston and New York millionaires, left to right, Lena Pena, King "Bear Jack" Bourne, and the Crown Prince, "Lillian Russell" McDonald, prominent Hartford society girl; Mary Whipple, Mrs. Frederick Snow and Mrs. Jack Bourne.

LOOKING FOR LIFE OF FREEDOM, THEY PLAY ROLES AS TRAMPS

By MARGERY LEE.

Hoboes, traveling dangerously on freight beams, usually wish they were millionaires.

Millionaires, riding in their luxurious autos, sometimes wish they were hoboes.

Hoboes have a cold, hungry time pretending they're millionaires. But a certain set of Boston and New York millionaires are getting a lot of sport out of pretending to be hoboes.

The millionaires have formed a Hobo Corporation. Here are the officers of the new organization:

John Knowles Bourne, hobo king.

Mrs. Frederick Snow, general manager, wife of Frederick Snow, of Gaston, Snow and Saltonstall, prominent Boston law firm.

Board of directors:

Mrs. Lowell Abbott, society matron of Needham, daughter of a wealthy North Carolina family.

Mrs. Mario Delano, artist daughter of Long Island millionaire, prominent in Boston social circles.

Charles Garland, eccentric millionaire, scion of old Boston family, who revealed his startling love-life recently.

Louis Hall, artistic garage owner of Buzzards Bay.

"Lillian Russell" McDonald, prominent Hartford society girl.

Dr. John Markey, expert horseman of Boston and Buzzards Bay.

Legal advisor, William T. Snow, a junior member of Gaston, Snow and Saltonstall.

PROTECTS THE ELECT.

The Hobo Corporation started when the millionaire members decided that something must be done to protect the elect from the encroachments of the rabble. It began innocently enough, with the Waffle Shop.

When the police department closed their Waffle Shop at No. 839 Boylston street, a short time ago, the exclusive circle of wealthy lovers of waffles and freedom felt outraged. They declared that their freedom had been grossly desecrated.

The stated purpose of the Hobo Corporation is to "fight the unions, protect the elect from the restrictions of the Great Unwashed, and secure freedom to enjoy the untrammeled luxury of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

The Hobo Corporation will attempt to be incorporated under the laws of Massachusetts. The members of the corporation will draw dividends from the profits of the new Waffle Shop, which has been opened on the Buzzards Bay highway, to take the place of the one on Boylston street.

STOCK AT $10 A SHARE.

The stockholders have shares of $10 each to the extent of 200 shares. The Waffle Shop has been in operation for about two months and is a huge success financially because of the marvellous waffles made from Ms. Snow's own recipe. The hobos plan to enlarge the shop and to build a crystal dance garden beside it, also a little theatre.

The Hobo King is Jack Knowles Bourne, who is serving a paternally-inflicted sentence of four years on Bear Jack Farm, Buzzards Bay.

Contrary to expectations, "Bear Jack," as he is called from his ferocious appearance and wild mode of living, has taken admirably to farm life. He works about the farm in his bare feet, clad in tattered corduroy and unshaven. His hair is uncut, and his gentlemanly hands are stained from their intimate contact with the soil. He revels in his wildness.

Asked if the Waffle Shop would try to sell liquor, Mary Whipple, the proprietress, said, "We'll probably not sell it, of course, but we won't try to keep people from bringing their own and enjoying it among their friends."

MRS. SNOW A LEADER.

Mrs. Frederick Snow, one of the prominent instigators of the Hobo movement, has repeatedly shocked polite society by her madcap projects. She is famous for her vivid ideas, her picturesque love of adventure and the daring nature of her enterprises.

Among the stockholders is Charles Garland, whose eccentric views received wide notoriety a short time ago, when he announced his untrammeled love for Lillian Conrad and expounded his unusual theories of free love and marriage. Mrs. Mary Wrenn Garland is also expected to join the corporation upon her return from Europe, where she is recovering from her strenuous domestic difficulties.

Stockholders of the corporation, according to Mrs. Snow, will represent all classes and professions. The principal requirement for membership is an unbounded love of freedom in all things and a determination that life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness shall not be interfered with by the laws which govern the "vulgar mob."

GASTON INVITED.

Invitations to join the organization have been sent out to other prominent and wealthy Boston people. The automobile belonging to the Hobo Corporation displays a conspicuous Gaston banner, and William A. Gaston has been sent an invitation requesting him to join the organization.

One purpose of the corporation is to provide an outlet for talent which is not recognized. The Hobo Colony will go in for aesthetic dancing, dramatics, poetry, singing and painting. When profits from the Waffle Shop allow it, a Little Theatre will be built where there will be the utmost freedom for anyone who wishes to experiment with dramatic talent.

ARREST TWO IN $40,000 SILK ROBBERY

Joseph Cohen, the Chelsea truckman arrested in connection with the $40,000 silk robbery attempted in the South End, made a flying leap at Robert Cravatts when the latter was brought into the guard room of Lagrange street police station today as second prisoner. Police intervened and kept Cohen quiet.

Cravatte, living in Hinsdale street, Roxbury, is an embroidery manufacturer at No. 45 Eliot street. He was arrested today, after the police had talked with Cohen, as a suspicion person.

The robbery was one of the largest wholesale jobs ever attempted in Boston. The gang of loft robbers had piled up $40,000 worth of silks and furs in the hallways of the Newman building at Nos. 888-890 Washington street. Patrolmen Paul Halloran and William Britt interrupted the robbery. The gang fled. The police seized an auto truck waiting at the doorway with motor running.

NAZZARO BOND BARRED WHILE HE'S AWAY

Add troubles of Michael B. Nazzaro, bail commissioner.

Uncle Sam says that if Michael is under observation at the Psychopathic Hospital he is below standard as a $10,000 bondsman.

Mrs. Rosa Schaffer of Walnut Park place, Roxbury, was suspected by Judge Morton in the Federal District Court of perjury in a narcotic case. She was put in custody of the Federal marshal, with bail fixed at $10,000. Nazzaro was accepted as bondsman and the woman regained her liberty.

Since then Nazzaro has been sent to the Psychopathic for observation.

Today Assistant United States District Attorneys Curtis and Keith asked Judge Morton to reject Nazzaro as bondsman, which he did.

Mrs. Shaffer was given time to find a new bondsman.

LAST U. S. TROOPS LEAVE RHINE SOON

Washington, Oct. 16.—The American forces on the Rhine, now numbering some 1,200 officers and men, probably will be brought home "in the very near future," it was stated authoritatively today following a conference between President Harding, Secretary of War Weeks and General John J. Pershing at the White House.

FINED UNDER NEW 'STREET SHOP' LAW

Abraham Raymer, who claims to be in the clothing business on Summer street, was before Judge Duff in Central Court today on a charge of soliciting business on the sidewalk.

Raymer was arrested by Special Officers Brennan and Bickford of the City Hall avenue station. Brennan said he found Raymer soliciting trade from several window shoppers.

Raymer is the first man to be arrested under a new law put into effect recently. He was fined $50 by Judge Dowd, who said, "I consider this the meanest kind of pilfering."

FISH ARRIVALS SEND PRICES TUMBLING

With the receipt of more than 1,000,000 pounds of fresh fish arriving at the South Boston pier today last week's sky-high prices volplaned to earth again. Haddock, which sold last week up to 12½ cents a pound at wholesale, today dropped to 2½ to 4½ cents. Other varieties declined proportionately. A small amount of fresh mackerel arrived, selling at 19 cents a pound for large ones and 8 cents for blinks.

MARY PICKFORD'S ILLNESS DENIED

Chicago, Oct. 16.—Published reports that Mary Pickford, "America's Sweetheart," is seriously ill, were denied today by John Fairbanks, brother of Douglas Fairbanks. Mary Pickford's husband. He said Miss Pickford would leave late today for New York.

DENBY TO SAIL ON FORD IN BIG RACE

Gloucester, Oct. 16.—The Bluenose and the Henry Ford, the fishing schooners that will race off this port Saturday for the International fishing vessel championship as representatives respectively of Canada and the United States, held to their wharves today, the wind too light to warrant sailing.

Captain Angus Walters had hoped to go over the forty-mile course on which the best two out of three races will be decided, and said he would put the Bluenose over it surely tomorrow before he sends her on the marine railway for overhaul the day after.

The American Race Committee prepared today to make formal request on the international committee for waiver of the rules to permit Secretary of the Navy Denby to sail on the Henry Ford next Saturday. The secretary has expressed a wish to be aboard the American challenger, and it is expected his wish will be fulfilled.

The winner of the cup this year is to race the Mayflower later for a $5,000 stake, it was announced today. The purse will be divided $3,000 to the winner and $2,000 to the loser.

guards, day and night, for the announced purpose of protecting herself against further bungling.

Investigators today claimed to have learned that shortly before the murder the slain couple had spent a day at Manhattan Beach, near Coney Island. As tending to prove that an affection existed between Mrs. Mills and the rector, a letter alleged to have been written him by the choir singer was made public.

This letter, apparently referring to the Manhattan Beach outing, read in part:

"Yesterday I was happy, in a way, in the boat and in the water; but on the way home I was thinking hard, oh, my darling babykins, what a muddle we are in. But I will be content. I will."

EX-KAISER AND HIS SON ARE BOTH ILL

Amsterdam, Oct. 16 (By International News Service).—Both ex-Kaiser and the former German Crown Prince were reported ill today. Word from Doorn said that the ex-Kaiser's condition is not serious and members of his household believe that his illness will not interfere with his marriage plans.

The ex-Crown Prince is in more serious condition. He is reported to be threatened with serious lung trouble.

Society Ladies Adopt New Hair Curling Method

Using Finis Liquid Silmerine

Since the introduction of the Silmerine method in this country, it has become quite "the proper thing" among society women, who have readily adopted it in place of the destructive curling iron. The waves and curls acquired by this method are far more natural in appearance, and the hair, of course, is glossier and prettier than could be if the tiles were cooked out of it.

The liquid put up by Parker-Belmont Co., Chicago, is pleasant to use, being neither greasy nor sticky. It is a simple thing to apply with a clean tooth brush before doing up the hair. The lovely wavy effect in evidence in about three hours is all that one could wish for, whether the hair be long or bobbed. It costs little to use Liquid Silmerine, as a few ounces from the druggist will keep the hair in curls for weeks.

Accuses Officer

to prosecute the case. All the cases were continued until October 25, in order that more evidence may be obtained.

The affair out of which the charges grew occurred early Thursday morning on the Strandway, at Carson Beach. The arrests were made Saturday.

According to the report made by the husband, Cronin attempted familiarities with his wife after the officer had apparently placed them under arrest. The couple earlier in the evening had visited friends in Cambridge, and with them had made a second visit in Malden.

CAR GOES "DEAD."

On returning to Dorchester the woman complained of a slight headache and as the weather was good, suggested to her husband that they ride to City Point and back along the Strandway in their automobile before returning home.

Just over the Columbia road bridge the engine went "dead," and with it the car's lights. Coasting to the bottom of the incline the man pulled up to the curb and got out to investigate.

AUTO DRAWS UP.

According to his story, a closed car which had been following close behind, also stopped and Cronin, in uniform stepped out. The patrolman asked the motorist why he had picked out that particular spot to park in and why he had extinguished his lights. Informed that the car had broken down, the man asserts Cronin accused him of lying and demanded to know the identity of the woman.

Upon being told that she was his wife, the patrolman branded this as a falsehood, and ordered her out of the machine. After commanding her to walk along the road, the husband says, Cronin started to abuse and threaten her, and when he responded to her calls for assistance he claims he was confronted by the officer with drawn revolver.

Cronin then ordered the man and women into the closed car and despite the protests of the chauffeur they drove to a section of Dorchester that is thickly wooded. There Cronin alighted and ordered the woman to follow him. When she protested, the husband says, the patrolman half led and half dragged her to a clump of bushes nearby.

Hearing his wife's cries, the man fought his captors in the car with handcuffed arms and finally succeeded in breaking away. Then, he adds, Cronin desisted in his attack on the woman and joined the fight, during which the husband was badly beaten. He charges that Sweeney also attempted to attack the woman, but was fought off.

Mr. and Mrs. Bowley have been married fourteen years. They have three children, Edna, 12 years old, Everett, 10, and Arthur, seven months. Mr. Bowley is employed by the Gray and Davis Motor Company of Boston.

PRISON HEADS TO MEET HERE IN 1923

The annual convention of the American Prison Association will be held next year in Boston. Dr. David J. Johnson, Institution Commissioner of the city, who is representing Boston at the convention in Detroit, wired Mayor Curley today as follows:

"Your Honor's invitation to association to hold next congress in Boston was presented at meeting here and it was unanimously voted to accept."

SLAIN TWINS REPLACED BY DOLLS

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 16.—A remarkable story was revealed here in the arrest on the charge of double murder of Mrs. Hazel McNally, twenty-six years old, formerly of Hammond, Ind., now of this city.

It is alleged by Frank McNally, age fifty years old, and husband of the woman, that she murdered her twins, born on December 8, 1921.

Mrs. McNally, who is a trained nurse, professed to see physical defects in the twins soon after their birth, the husband says, and she left her home in Hammond on January 28 ostensibly to place the children in a Chicago hospital for treatment. She returned home soon, according to her husband, and explained that the twins would be left in the hospital until February.

Prosecutor Jellison says McNally told him that on February 1 the woman again went to Chicago and on her return had with her the supposed children, which were in reality two large dolls.

"The twins are still very ill and have weak eyes," it is alleged she told her husband, "and they must be kept in a darkened room and remain undisturbed. It will be some time before you can see them."

In May, McNally informed Jellison, he discovered by accident that the supposed babies were dolls.

She was confronted with her husband's story, and declared the twins were now in the care of a family at Green Bay, Wis. Later she admitted that she was trying to mislead the authorities. Maintaining her innocence, she declared that she had not given birth to twins and that the incident of the dolls was merely a hoax which she played on her husband.

NEW MOVIE LIGHT BY MAUDE ADAMS

New York, Oct. 16.—Maude Adams, noted actress, is ready to present for practical use the invention connected with the movies on which she has been working for some time, according to a report in theatrical circles. It is said to be a type of light that can be used for theatre illumination so that motion pictures can be thrown on the screen without the ordinary process of dimming the house lights, which has often proved inconvenient. The light is used in conjunction with the arc of the motion picture projection machine.

STRAY SHOT HITS POLICE OFFICER

Sergeant Walter G. Horton of Dudley Street Station stood talking with Patrolman Fitzgerald, commenting on the serenity of things.

A shot shattered the silence.

Officer Fitzgerald started to lope in the direction of the sound.

"Gosh, I'm shot," shouted the sergeant.

He was. A small caliber bullet pierced the sleeve of his coat and grazed the flesh of his arm.

Police think careless small boys are responsible.

It occurred at Washington and Elmore streets, Roxbury.

CENSOR MEANS 'BOOTLEGGING' MOVIES

It will cost either $2 or $4 to have every film or duplicate censored, should the proposed censorship law be accepted by the voters on November 7.

Today there are about 370 moving picture theatres in the State. Annually they use 500,000 reels. Of course many of the reels are used more than once. But, by making due allowance, it can be seen that the there expense of censoring films will mount up into five figures.

PUBLIC PAYS.

And this means that this cost will be passed along to the same group that stands for the other burdens of censorship, namely, the public. Add this item to the actual cost of enforcing censorship laws, which will also reach thousands of dollars annually, and it is easy to understand why the average taxpayer in Massachusetts is solidly against censorship.

All this is aside from the fact that censorship is in direct opposition to the Constitution in that it suppresses one of the fundamentals of that document, the right of free speech and thought.

The Boston American Censorship Contest is bringing in hundreds of protests. When the contest closes the one submitting the best letter on censorship will get $250, with $100 as second prize and $50 as third. A cash award of $2 additional will be given for each letter printed.

Here are some letters:

SUPPRESSION BAD.

Editor Boston American:

Have you really ever heard of an immoral moving picture play? No? Nor have I. Can you imagine a few years from now a fellow going up to a youngster just out of short pants, and saying, "Come up to the snappy pictures, imported from Paris, you know—a dollar a throw. Keep it under cover; we don't want to get raided."

Sounds absurd, doesn't it? Well, now, suppose in 1912 a man had said that ten years from that time thousands of men would make it their business to sell wood alcohol, and even worse concoctions, to men and boys on our streets, at 50 cents a drink—"smuggled in from Cuba, you know."

The movie bootlegger. Don't laugh! When the Prohibition act was passed, the young fellow, thinking he was being cheated out of something, immediately decided that he wanted that which had been stopped, prohibited, censored. He got what? The rottenest stuff imaginable.

H. F. FLYNN.

No. 22 eorge street, Norwood.

LIBERTY OF IDEAS.

Editor Boston American:

Censorship is neither more nor less than the negation of all faith in the goodness of mankind. If this world had begun its checkered career with a censor, properly installed with full powers, the chances are that it would have expired in swaddling clothes.

Not even a censor could mould the universe to his heart's desire.

No individual censor has a monopoly of judgment concerning what is good and what is bad for the rest of us. The final decision must always rest with the good sense of the people themselves. There it has been and always will be, well taken care of.

Censorship is the beginning of inquisition, and inquisition is the most hideous thing the world has ever known.

KENDALL GREEN.
JAMES McLEOD.

DANGEROUS PRECEDENT.

Editor Boston American:

The institution of the State Censor is a dangerous precedent against local regulation and the establishment of an autocratic control that savors more of Prussian bureaucracy than American democracy. Present statues are perfectly adequate to protect the public against the exhibition of improper films.

Censorship of moving pictures is surely an opening wedge to censorship of all information, instruction and amusement afforded by books, magazines, drama, newspapers and advertising. It is a physical impossibility for one man and an assistant to review sufficient films to supply 900 exhibitors in this State.

CHARLES O. PHIPPS,
16 Morton street, Lawrence, Mass.

Facts About Movie Censorship

1. The Commissioner of Public Safety will be the Censor, in name.

2. He will name a Deputy who will be the real censor, for $3,500 a year.

3. The Commissioner will also name as many State Police Officers, clerks and other assistants as may be necessary to enforce the censorship and handle details.

4. The cost of censoring films will be as follows: less than 1,000 feet, $2.00; more than 1,000 feet, $4.00.

5. No pictures can be shown unless approved by the Censor.

6. Present laws forbid showing indecent or immoral pictures. Penalty: one year in jail, or $500 fine or both.

7. Violation of proposed censorship laws provide following penalty: first offense, a $50 fine. Succeeding offenses, $100 fine each.

8. ALL EXPENSE WILL, NATURALLY, BE PASSED ON TO THE PUBLIC.

HYPOCRISY SEEN IN CENSOR BILL BY CLERKS

That hypocrisy is one of the real foundations for the fight for movie censorship on the part of a small minority, is the belief of some of Boston's clerks, as told to the Boston American.

Hypocrisy and prejudice and bigotry are scored by clerks who make up a greater part of Boston's business activities. For, they aver, no liberal-minded man, or one who really believed in the rights of American citizens, under the Constitution, could be in favor of movie censorship or any other form of suppression.

Here is what some of them say:

EXPENSE NEEDLESS.

Miss Marion Flynn, Oak street, Charlestown, said:

"Any attempt to censor movies will mean a very large expense to tax payers. Not only will we have to pay for the cost of enforcing the censorship laws, but we will have to pay more for our pleasure in the movie theatre. And this expense is absolutely needless. I say that we should let well enough alone. It is time that these self-styled saviors went to work at some productive occupation."

Marion Flynn

INSPIRED BY FANATICS.

Joseph Kellher, No. 5 Chatham Road, Everett, speaks his mind as follows:

"I have yet to meet a person who is really in favor of movie censorship. So far as I can see, it is only a small minority of blue-sky fanatics who are in favor of this bill. It would be interesting to know their real object. If they would make sure that their own morals were 100 per cent perfect they would be doing a lot for the betterment of the State, instead of trying to run other people's morals."

Joseph Kellher

LAW IS SUFFICIENT.

Henry McCraw of No. 47 Bradwood street, Roslindale, says:

"A man can be sent to jail under the present laws if he has any part in producing an immoral show. I think that will make anyone think twice before trying to corrupt the public morals. Why, then, make soft jobs for some aspiring men when their services are not needed?

Henry McCraw

CHOSE JAIL TO HIDE SHAME OF WIFE HE SLEW

Pittsburgh, Oct. 16.—For eleven years Jack Edwards, once a Johnstown policeman, has remained in prison, refusing, as he did throughout his trial, to make any defence for killing his wife. He kept silent because he did not want his daughter to know his wife had been unfaithful and that her unfaithfulness had been with the daughter's husband.

This is the story his attorneys are laying before the pardon board. They explain that the daughter now is dead and the truth can no longer injure her.

"My client tells me," Attorney Samuel H. Gardner says, "that on the day of the crime he went home unexpectedly and found his wife and son-in-law together. Beside himself with rage, he whipped out his policeman's revolver and fired four bullets into his wife's body as his son-in-law fled.

"I am convinced there were extremely extenuating circumstances which the man refused to make use of because he did not want his daughter to know of her mother's shame.

"'I would have died on the scaffold,' says Edwards himself. 'I would have spent my life within these old walls rather than have my daughter know the reason I killed my wife.'"

Edwards is now sixty-two years old.

Killed by Automobile

New London, Ct., Oct. 16.—Robert Roache, thirty years of age, of Westerly, was killed when he was struck by an automobile owned and driven by Amico E. Monti.

Who will pay, in the end? The good natured public, as usual."

SUPPRESSES FREEDOM.

Miss Christine Sousa, No. 223 Broadway, Cambridge, gives the following opinion:

"Censorship should never be tolerated in this country. Of what use is the constitution if we are to have our freedom of press and speech suppressed? I go to the movies often and can't say that I have seen pictures that need were improper. I certainly hope that the voters of Massachusetts show their dislike for this bill, in real emphatic manner, in November."

Christine Sousa

ENGLAND PAYS $50,000,000 IN INTEREST

By International News Service.

London, Oct. 16.—The first payment by any of the allied powers to the United States is to be made by Great Britain today, when the Treasury Department turns over $50,000,000 to the American government through J. P. Morgan & Co. at New York, American fiscal agent of the British government.

This is an instalment on overdue interest on the $4,277,000,000 lent by the United States to Great Britain in war time loans and credits. It is believed by British government officials that the beginning of interest payments will go far towards unsnarling the inter-allied debt tangle.

Payments are to be made at intervals of six months. The check is drawn against the British government account with J. P. Morgan & Co. in favor of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York.

Great Britain will not commence on the principal until after funding arrangements have been completed at Washington between the British Debt Funding Commission, headed by Sir Robert Horne, chancellor of the exchequer, and the American Debt Funding Commission. An appropriation of approximately $125,000,000 for payment of interest on the American debt has been made in the British budget.

In financial and business circles it is felt the addition to the already overwieldy gold surplus of the United States will hurt her trade and rebound to the advantage of British trade.

MIRIAM FENNO TO WED BOSTON BANKER

Marriage intentions have been filed by Miss Miriam Fenno and John Simpkins, Beverly banker. She was presented in 1917, is a member of the Sewing Circle and Vincent Club and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Brooks Fenno of No. 255 Commonwealth avenue. She did relief work in the devastated regions of France. Mr. Simpkins is the son of Nathaniel Simpkins. He was a captain of artillery in the Yankee Division. He is widely known in Boston club circles.

PIANO SALE

Of New Uprights, Players and Baby Grands

SPECIAL—In this sale will be found many of the best makes of uprights and players that have been only slightly used at a big reduction in price. Look like and ARE as good as new.

IS attracting a great deal of attention from my competitors in Boston and New England. They marvel at my prices, and the consensus of opinion among them is that J. P. Collins cannot possibly make any money selling new pianos as low as he does.

They seem to think that I will ruin the retail Piano business if I don't make big profits.

Profit from piano sales is the least of my worries, other departments of my business taking care of any loss that I make cutting prices on pianos.

I never hear any kicking from the public on my low prices. The people come to my sales in droves from all over New England—people from Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut know J. P. Collins—his methods—his prices—his liberality—his more than fair terms and the people from near and far flock to his wonderful piano sales. New Upright Pianos of the finest makes are sold for a song. When others business is at a standstill, J. P. Collins cuts the prices again and starts a big rushing sale — all the time. No let up, he makes the prices low enough and the public always responds. This sale is a wonder—come and investigate.

MISS FRANCES CLARK

Miss Frances Clark, who is planning a trip around the world with her mother, Mrs. Homer B. Richardson, has a very loyal bodyguard in the little white sealyham pictured with her. (Photo by White.)

By BETTY ALDEN.

WHEN MRS. HOMER B. RICHARDSON and her daughter, Miss Frances Clark, start on their trip around the world some time within the next few months, not only will society lose two of its most charming members, but the Infants' Hospital will be minus two of its staunchest friends.

Everyone knows, of course, how cleverly Mrs. Richardson "put over" Mrs. Adelaide Whitman's musical comedy "Why Not" last Spring. A very nice sum indeed was raised thereby for the hospital, as well as affording society an extraordinary evening of entertainment.

Miss Clark, who has always been at hand to help her mother in any of this charity work, is a decided brunette, slender and rather petite. It used to be quite a frequent sight to see Miss Clark walking up Boylston street, accompanied by her very aristocratic little sealyham terrier and her smart looking tan Pom. That, of course, was before Mrs. Richardson sold her Marlboro street house this Summer. Ever since the transfer of this property she and her daughter have been at their Summer cottage in Nahant, where they will probably remain until shortly before their departure for foreign shores.

SPEAKING of departing for distant lands, the old kit bag seems to be in considerable use these days among members of the fashionable world.

I heard the other day that Mrs. Henry L. Sigourney of Beacon street is Europe-bound, very likely to see her youngest daughter, vivacious Mary Sigourney-that-was, and now Mrs. Rochfort Y. Loveband. It was last May that Mary Sigourney, whose terpischorean talent won considerable renown for her, became the bride of the young British lieutenant commander and member of the Royal Navy.

Miss Rose Dexter, too, I understand, is soon to desert these shores, having booked passage for late October. No. 400 Beacon street, Miss Dexter's residence, has been used for innumerable charity functions given by the smart set.

Others who have already arrived in Europe for the Winter season are Mrs. Charles H. Fiske and her daughter, Miss Cornelia Fiske, who sailed about a month ago. During their absence I understand Mr. Fiske is to make his home at the Tennis and Racquet Club. All society remembers the very fashionable wedding which united Miss Rosanna D. Fiske, the younger daughter, and Lloyd B. Sanderson, Jr., of New York. The ceremony was solemnized last April at Christ Church, Cambridge, where the bride's mother, grandmother and great-grandmother had all promised to "love, honor and obey" their respective spouses.

IF a good many folk are taking the trip "across the big pond" these days bound for Europe, there are others returning from such journeys.

Among the latter are Mr. and Mrs. Lars Anderson (Isabel Perkins), who are already domiciled for the Fall at "Weld," their Brookline estate, after a Summer spent in European travels.

The Andersons, of course, are rather confirmed globe-trotters, though they are very fond of "Weld," and no wonder, with all the beauty the latter place boasts of. During the Winter months the former Ambassador to Japan and his clever wife usually live for a while at their Washington residence on Massachusetts avenue, where they entertain all the leading lights of the social, political and diplomatic worlds.

Returning on the same boat with the Andersons was Miss Mercedes de Acosta, sister of Mrs. Andrew Robeson Sargent (Maria de Acosta) of Boston, with whom she frequently visits. The rare beauty of the de Acosta girls, of pure Spanish type, is known far and wide.

ONE of the most important "deb" presentations of the season is scheduled for next Friday evening, when Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Carnegie, 2d, are giving a dance in honor of their younger daughter, Miss Lucy Carnegie.

This affair, unlike most of the others, will take place on the North Shore, at the Essex County Club in Manchester, where the Carnegies have a beautiful Summer place known as "Seawold."

The older daughter, Miss Nancy Carnegie—both she and her sister were of the society salesladies' group at Jay's last week—came out two years ago, her debut also taking place on the Shore. Later in the season the family will go to the Carnegie Winter home on Cumberland Island, off the Georgia coast.

MISCHA ELMAN RECITAL AT SYMPHONY

Both sides of Symphony Hall were lined with people who stood throughout a long recital yesterday afternoon for the privilege of listening to one of the most popular musicians who comes to Boston just as often as the musical season crops around. Few artists share with Mischa Elman the ability to crowd that auditorium beyond its seating capacity.

His program opened with the Handel Sonata in D major followed by the Vieuxtemps Concerto in A minor; the Bach Chaconne, which was unaccompanied; the Korngold Incidental music to "Much Ado About Nothing"; the Chopin-Wilhelmj Nocturne and the Sarasate "Jota."

A very decided factor in the success of Mr. Elman's recital was the playing of Josef Bonime, his accompanist, who is so far out of the ordinary that his work will be remembered with pleasure for a long time.

The Artistry of All Nations

From earliest times, wherever clay was found men became potters just as they became hunters, carpenters, smiths, etc., by sheer force of necessity. Long centuries after the first sun-baked vessels were made came the Egyptian, Greek, and Chinese pottery.

So the art of ceramics has developed in all countries with each succeeding generation. The student can trace many motifs used in the finest pieces made today back through the centuries to the art of the primitive races.

We carry many fine examples of modern china in place plates, bouillon cups, after-dinner coffee sets, tea cups, coffee cups, salad and game plates. They will be found at the rear of the first floor. They make excellent wedding and anniversary gifts.

HUSBAND TRYING TO HOLD HER UP, SAYS MME. MATZENAUER

SONGBIRD TELLS OF THREAT

Says Glotbach Visited Woman in "Interesting Condition" at Carmel

San Francisco, Oct. 16.—Madame Matzenauer, operatic prima donna, today upon arriving in this city to begin a concert engagement, in a lengthy statement denounced the divorce action brought by Floyd Glotzbach, her chauffeur husband, as being inspired solely by the hope of securing part of her income.

Charges she made in her original divorce action in New York, since withdrawn, that Glotzbach was intimate with women at Carmel, haunt of California's artists, are reiterated in the statement which follows:

"I had no intention of reopening the matter or opening any of Mr. Glotzbach's accusations at this time, but now I am compelled as an American citizen, and as an artist who has served the American public for eleven years faithfully and as a woman who is dependent upon her career to support not only herself but also her aged father and her little daughter, Adrienne, to make this statement to the public.

TELLS OF THREAT.

"Mr. Glotzbach's articles in the Sunday papers were already threatened last March in a telegram to my lawyer, John Godfrey Saxe, No. 20 Broad street, New York, photographic copy of which telegram I send, saying that unless we got into immediate communication with him he would accept an offer to syndicate story of our married life.

"He has waited to carry out his threat until now when I am in the state of California to make a concert tour and is trying to persecute me when he knows I need all my strength for my work before the public. He has also intimated through his lawyer Maximilian J. Perser, that under the California law half of my income during marriage is due him.

LETTER FROM WOMAN.

"I have in my possession an original letter written by a woman of Carmel, dated January 19, 1922, in which she states that she is in an interesting condition and commanding him to return to her immediately. Glotzbach left me during December, 1921, and visited Carmel at that time. This letter is the real cause of the break in our relations.

"I temporarily cancelled my divorce action in New York State solely for the reason that my first duty is to the public, and while this litigation was in progress I could not do full justice to my work. I will now carry out this duty in spite of all Mr. Glotzbach's false accusations and persecutions. I trust in the fair-mindedness and sense of righteousness of Americans to know that I am saying the absolute truth."

READING PLEADED ON PARKER'S ADVICE

Atty. Arthur K. Reading issued for publication today a letter he received from former Attorney-General Herbert Parker, his counsel in the Harvard student registration case, in which Mr. Parker asserts his belief that any infraction of the law by Mr. Reading in that case was wholly without intention. Mr. Parker's letter adds:

"After much discussion with the District Attorney (Cavanaugh), I advised you to enter a plea of nolo contendere and the District Attorney agreed to accept it. . . . You were, of course, aware, as you were then advised that the plea of nolo contendere is not a plea of guilty, and is not an admission of guilt. The letter concludes with Mr. Parker's assertion that any attempt to impugn Reading's character because of this case is unwarranted and unjust.

MATZENAUER'S HUBBY AGAIN SEEKS DIVORCE

MME. MATZENAUER AND HUSBAND

Floyd Glotzbach, chauffeur-husband of Mme. Matzenauer, famous prima donna, has again gone to the courts to seek a divorce from his musical spouse. Mme. Matzenauer is now appearing on the Pacific Coast in a concert tour. In a statement she says she has proof of husband's perfidy.

MOTION PICTURE NEWS

By FREDERICK JOHNS.

"His face is his fortune" might be written of Louis Wolheim, who plays the part of Petrus, the Russian "Red" in "The Face in the Fog." Not that Wolheim would win any prize in a beauty contest, for as those who have seen him in "The Hairy Ape" know he wears the most villainous face imaginable. Wolheim used to be quite a handsome boy, but one day, in a football game at Cornell, he had his nose broken and his theretofore handsome map marked up like a battlefield in Flanders.

His stage career, toward which Wolheim had been studying, seemed doomed. But just then a moving picture company, headed by Lionel Barrymore, came to Ithaca to film some scenes. Requiring a particularly villainous face the director engaged young Wolheim. Barrymore got to talking with him, and finding him ambitious and talented, gave him a part in one of his stage productions, and trained him in the art of acting.

When Eugene O'Neill wrote his romance of "beauty and the beast," known as "The Hairy Ape," it was a question if he could ever find an actor who could both look and play the part. Barrymore unhesitatingly recommended Wolheim, and the hit he scored is a part of recent theatrical history. Then when Cosmopolitan Productions acquired the motion picture rights to Jack Boyle's famous "Boston Blackie" stories, and Lionel Barrymore was engaged for the leading role in "The Face in the Fog" he recommended Louis Wolheim for "The Face."

PSYCHOLOGICAL COMEDY.

In "The Agent," Larry Semon endeavors to show the public some of the real slapstick stunts that overtake a comedian while making a picture. This little touch comes as a surprise finish to a picture which is replete with comic antics. It has been termed the psychological comedy because Larry, by experimenting with various audiences, has produced a film in which it is almost impossible to anticipate the action.

SEEK INJUNCTION.

GOODWYN DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION, distributors of John Barrymore in "Sherlock Holmes," announces that it will restrain all competing companies from issuing motion pictures under the title of "Sherlock Holmes" or "Adventures of Sherlock Holmes."

A motion for temporary injunction has been filed in the Supreme Court by William Gillette, Charles Frohman, Inc., and Alco Enterprises, Inc., restraining the Stoll Film Company, Ltd., and the Education Film Exchanges, Inc., from using the title "Sherlock Holmes" or "The Adventures of Sherlock Holmes" in connection with motion pictures.

FILMED WAR VIEWS.

ALAN CROSLAND, who has gone to France to film Blasco Ibanez's "Enemies of Women" for Cosmopolitan Productions, was special cinematographer with the United States Signal Corps during the war, filming the official government pictures of the A. E. F. activities. Therefore he knows how to pick locations and talk trench French to the natives. Lionel Barrymore, Alma Rubens, Pedro de Cordoba, Gareth Hughes, W. H. Thompson, William Collier, Jr., and Gladys Hulette are the principals, with Daniel Carson Goodman as company manager.

JOKE COMES HOME.

WHEN T. Roy Barnes was a vaudeville monologist he used to get a lot of laughs with his story about the city girl who said she could milk a cow, but didn't know how to turn it off. The joke came home to Roy recently when in a scene from "Adam and Eve," which Cosmopolitan is filming with Marion Davies as the star, Mr. Barnes was required to really milk a cow. Report says that Director Robert G. Vignola had to give him several rehearsals before T. Roy could even turn on the milk.

LLOYD GEORGE WRONG, SAYS FRENCH ENVOY

Paris, Oct. 16 (By the Associated Press). — Henri Franklin-Bouillon, French peace envoy to the Turkish Nationalists, arrived in Paris this morning and was received by Premier Poincare.

"I am convinced peace is assured," he told the correspondents. "I had to use all my personal influence with Mustapha Kemal Pasha, but the fight was much severer on the side of our British allies. They were stubborn, albeit courteous, but France played a preponderant part in the establishment of peace.

"The French intervention created great enthusiasm among our Turkish friends—for they really are our friends.

"This memory of our part in bringing about peace will long be cherished in Turkey."

The French envoy was all smiles but his face quickly sobered at mention of Prime Minister Lloyd George's Manchester speech.

"I shall have something to say about this," declared M. Franklin-Bouillon. "The British reinforcements had nothing to do with the peacemaking, and the British Premier's speech would go a long way toward endangering it now were it not built upon solid bases."

21 HORSES START 300-MILE TEST

Burlington, Vt., Oct. 16.—Twenty-one horses started today in the annual army endurance ride. The American Mounted Service cup, the Arabian Horse Club medal and cash prizes totaling $1,700 will be awarded to the best performers in the test, which is designed to determine the type of mount best suited to the army's use.

The 200-mile course over Vermont hills and valleys is so arranged that the riders will finish at the starting point Friday night. On Saturday morning Governor James O. Hartness will award the prizes.

The first leg of the race today was from Burlington to Brandon, with a mid-day stop at Middlebury.

Officials said they never had seen horses in better condition than the entrants this year.

PHONE GIRL'S CASE PUT OVER ONE WEEK

A full hearing to bring out all the facts is scheduled for next week on the petition of Miss Mae E. Matthews, of Boston Telephone Operators' Union, for an injunction to restrain Miss Mary E. June and other union officers from expelling her from the organization. Judge Wait, without hearing the case today, ordered the plaintiffs compelled forthwith and the case placed on the list of the merit session for next week.

BLOW COMISKY SAFE FOR BASEBALL CASH

Chicago, Oct. 16.—Five men, apparently in search of $25,000, the receipts of the Cube-White Sox city series game yesterday, surprised and bound the negro watchman at Comiskey Park and blew open the safe. Only $100 was in it. Stanley Wilson, the watchman, became confused under police questioning.

Actors Give Concert

Noble Sissle and members of the "Shuffle Along" company at Selwyn's Theatre gave a sacred concert at the Shawmut Congregational Church. The proceeds were in aid of the St. Mark's Congregational Church, a mission church at No. 533 Massachusetts avenue, South End, of which the Rev. C. L. Miller is pastor.

TELEGRAPH BRIEFS

Brussels—Baron de Cartier de Marchienne, Belgian Ambassador to the United States, will sail for New York October 18.

Wellsburg, W. Va.—The defence motion for a change of venue in the cases growing out of the Clifton-ville mine battle, in which Sheriff H. H. Duvall and six others were killed, was overruled by Circuit Judge Sommerville.

Philadelphia—State Senator Edwin H. Vare died today at Ambler, Pa., of a throat infection.

New York—The death in Dairen, Manchuria, of Sen Kichiro Hayakawa, president of the South Manchurian Railway, was made known today in cables received here.

Geneva—Ignace J. Paderewski will sail for the United States October 21, to resume his appearance as a pianist, giving a series of concerts in the principal American cities.

Kalamazoo, Mich.—A detective is expected to be sent to Syracuse, N. Y., today, to investigate a report there that Horace Dodge was mistaken for his cousin, John Duval Dodge of Detroit, accused of breaking his probation by leaving the state.

New York—Losses running into the millions are faced today by speculators in eggs who last Spring stored them in warehouses, hoping to hold them for higher prices and who now find the market glutted with them. About 1,250,000 cases containing thirty dozen eggs each are stored in the New York area.

RATES SEND 2 SHIPS AWAY TO LOAD CARGO

Two more striking examples of the strangling influence of the port rate differentials on Boston's ocean commerce came to light today.

The British tramp steamer Cornish City, which has been unloading British coal at Boston, sailed for Norfolk to load freight cars for Danzig. The Polish government has recently purchased from the War Department 7,504 freight cars and twenty-two steamers will be required to take them to Danzig and Stettin. Poland has also purchased 150 locomotives from the Baldwin Works, which will begin going forward from the Baldwin dock at Eddystone, Pa., in November.

The Greek steamship Knipsee Verzetti, which also brought cargo to Boston, sailed for Montreal to load grain for Greek ports.

Both instances are typical of what is taking place every day. Shipping men say that with export freight rates equalized, as they are in every group of ports in the United States except Chesapeake Bay and Delaware River ports, these ships would have secured cargo in Boston.

Krassin Resigns

Riga, Oct. 16 (By the Associated Press).—Leonid Krassin has resigned as Russian Soviet Minister of Trade and Commerce.

Length of Skirts to Depend Upon the Shape of Legs

Los Angeles, Oct. 16.—The length of girls' skirts next Summer will depend upon the shape of the wearer's legs, declares Miss Claire West, noted modiste for the Hollywood movie colony.

"The 'gosling' will wear her skirts as long, or short, as her legs are beautiful," she said. "The damsel whose legs are without contour or run to ankle will be wise to keep a skirt of a little more length. But the girl with beautiful legs, let her make the most of them."

U. S. MARINES AT FOO CHOW LAND TO KEEP ORDER

London, Oct. 16 (By International News Service).—American, British and Japanese marines have been landed to preserve order at Foo Chow, seat of the latest outbreak of fighting in China, said a dispatch from Shanghai this afternoon.

A revolutionary government has been established at Foo Chow by the rebel faction. Foo Chow is capital of Fokien province.

Tell Them Your Story

How teeth discolored—how some decayed

Teach them the new way to better protection

Nearly every mother knows that, under old ways of brushing, teeth still discolored, still decayed. Tooth troubles were constantly increasing, until 49 in 50 suffered in some way. Very few children escaped.

Now there's a better method. Millions of people now employ it, largely by dental advice. To careful people of some fifty nations it is bringing a new dental era.

Tell them about it—let them test it. They will quickly see and feel the effects. And it will aid them, all life long, to better avoid troubles which you suffered.

Film—the great enemy

Modern research proves that most tooth troubles are caused by film. Film is that viscous coat you feel. It clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays. The ordinary tooth paste does not effectively combat it, so old-way brushing left much of it intact.

Film absorbs stains, making the teeth look dingy. It forms cloudy coats. Tartar is based on film. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acids. It holds the acids in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. Thus, all one's life, most people's teeth were dimmed and threatened by that film.

Two combatants now

Dental science, after long research, has found two ways to fight film. One acts to curdle film, one to remove it, without any harmful scouring.

Able authorities, by careful tests, have proved these ways effective. Now leading dentists the world over are advising their daily use,

A new-type tooth paste has been created, to comply with modern requirements. It protects the teeth in five new ways, now known to be essential. Those two great film combatants are embodied in it. The name of that tooth paste is Pepsodent.

Two great mistakes

Modern research also proves that tooth pastes based on soap and chalk brought undesired effects. They reduced the starch digestant in the saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits on teeth which may otherwise ferment and form acids.

They reduced the alkalinity of the saliva. That is there to neutralize the acids which cause decay.

Pepsodent corrects those mistakes. It multiplies the starch digestant, multiplies the alkalinity. Thus every use gives manifold power to Nature's great tooth-protecting forces in the mouth.

That is why Pepsodent is so fast bringing a new era in dental hygiene.

FIGHT FOR THE BONUS JUST BEGUN, MacNIDER TELLS LEGION MEET

DEMAND WAR FRAUD ACTION

Delegates to Also Protest Against Reduction of Regular Army

By International News Service.

New Orleans, Oct. 16.—While his veterans shouted and stamped their approval, retiring National Commander Hanford MacNider opened the fourth national convention of the American Legion here today with a militant declaration the soldiers' bonus fight has only just begun.

From out of the long, hard battle he and his aides directed unsuccessfully to put the adjusted compensation bill over the top at Washington, MacNider asserted that "no one man, untouched by war, without kith or kin, can stand between the wishes of the American people and the fulfilment of what they believe to be a just obligation."

"FIGHT JUST BEGUN."

He made no direct reference to the veto by President Harding of the McCumber-Fordney bonus measure, nor to the little group of senators who sustained the veto, but he left no doubt as to whom he referred as he carefully aimed each of his barbed verbal shafts at the opponents of adjusted compensation for the nation's ex-service men.

"A great, well-financed attack by interests which we cannot help but feel are sordid and selfish has given us one little setback, but those who represent the people at Washington are with us by great majorities," MacNider added as he dwelt upon the passage of the McCumber-Fordney bill by a vote of 233 to 70 in the House and 47 to 22 in the Senate.

"We have only just started to fight," he said. "The adjusted compensation legislation is right. We know it is right and right always prevails in America. It is not a question of raising the necessary funds. A maximum annual payment of $100,000,000 is not even an appreciable fraction of a $4,000,000,000 national budget. That is simply camouflage thrown up to hide the real issue."

AIMS OF CONVENTION.

The convention is expected to concentrate on the following:

1—Adoption of measures to reorganize the fight for adjusted compensation so that a successful bonus bill will be adopted by the next session of Congress.

2—Movement by concentrated effort of legion posts throughout the country to bring the strongest possible pressure to bear to cause the immediate and unrelenting prosecution of all war fraud cases.

3—Passage of strong resolutions addressed to Congress protesting against cutting down of the regular army to a point where its mobile force today is only 25,000 men. These resolutions will urge adequate but economic provisions for the national defence.

Asks $10,000,000 for Veterans in Hospitals

New Orleans, La., Oct. 14.—Request for a $10,000,000 appropriation to equip hospitals now being constructed and to build additional hospitals for neuro-psychiatric patients is contained in the report of the American Legion's commission for rehabilitation, laid before the convention today by Colonel A. A. Sprague, head of the rehabilitation commission. The report criticizes the government achievements to date in caustic language.

"The story of hospital construction by the government up to date," declared the report, "judging by actual results is a tragedy for the sick, a discredit to the government, and an affront to the American Legion. There is not a redeeming feature in it; politics, promises, plans, failure to prepare anything but alibis in advance, red tape, excuses, and contentions, conspired to defeat the actual providing of needed beds.

ROOSTERS BARRED FROM PARCEL POST

Washington, Oct. 16.—The rooster cannot travel by United States mail, but day-old chicks, according to a Postoffice Department announcement today, still may be shipped, provided their journey may be completed with seventy-two hours. Harmless live animals, rated as inoffensive, and not requiring food or water in transit, may go by mail, along with baby terrapins, soft-shell crabs, blood worms and chemeleons. Under new regulations, live alligators more than twenty inches long are barred.

ENVIED BY HARVARD FOOTBALL COACH

CAROL DEMPSTER

D. W. Griffith's new star in "One Exciting Night," who may visit Stadium and give University Squad a few lessons in flying tackles.

FLYING TACKLE BY FILM STAR A WONDER

By FRED J. McISAAC.

One of the Harvard coaches wandered into D. W. Griffith's "One Exciting Night," Saturday, and on his way out said:

"I'm going to bring the Harvard squad over here to see that girl make that flying tackle."

D. W. Griffith heard the remark, and as a result, an invitation to the entire Harvard team is going out to see Carol Dempster bring down her man.

MADE AGILE BY TRAINING.

Miss Dempster, Griffith's new star, is a very young girl, apparently as shrinking and timid a creature as Lillian Gish. During the early scenes of "One Exciting Night," the poor little girl is quite pathetic, with her big round eyes and her sweet and almost simpering manner. She has a mother who is real rough with her and pushes her around most sinfully. When she gets into the haunted house she simulates a beautiful young lady being scared to death most beautifully.

But when she falls in love and her gentleman friend is in some slight danger of getting hung as a murderer, then how she changes. She sees the real murderer making his escape through a terrific rain storm with a bag containing $500,000 in motion picture money and she chases him. And just as it looks as though he were going to get away she brings him down from behind with a flying tackle which catches him at the knees, just the way Eddie Mahan used to do at Harvard years ago.

PLAYS TIMID GIRL.

The explanation of this extraordinary athletic feat is simple enough. Before Miss Dempster became a film star her ambition was to be a dancer. She studied with Ruth St. Denis out in California and got to be so strong and agile and athletic that a little thing like tackling a man running at full speed and risking getting hit in the head by his flying heels means nothing to her.

D. W. Griffith wants those football boys to understand that Carol makes her tackles in a filmy gown without any head guard, nose guard, shin guard, shoulder pads, or padded pants. And if Harvard needs Miss Dempster to give a few lessons in flying tackles he might let her go out to the Stadium and demonstrate. With Centre College coming Hdrvard needs a little tack.. practice.

SUES FOR DIVORCE AFTER "VILLAGE" RAID

New York, Oct. 16.—A spectacular raid on a Greenwich Village apartment netted enough evidence to warrant the filing of a divorce suit by Mrs. Linna M. Thomas against her husband, Lloyd Thomas. Mrs. Thomas is a well known writer. Her home is at No. 434 West Twentieth street. Her husband is a magazine editor, and during the World War he was a lieutenant in the American Expeditionary Forces. When Mrs. Thomas wanted evidence for her suit she immediately ordered that Greenwich Village be watched.

ESCAPES DETECTION FOR MONTHS AS BOY

Chicago, Oct. 16.—Fourteen-year-old Margaret Davis tired of the games that girls played. She wanted to get out and play baseball, football and even to work on a farm. So she cut her hair short, donned a boy's clothing and left home. Her absence was discovered and the police worked for weeks on the theory that she had been murdered.

Margaret has just been located working on a farm near Roselle, Ill. In her hip pocket was found a plug of tobacco. For months she escaped detection.

ACTRESS TRAVELS A MILLION MILES

New York, Oct. 16.—Ellen Gierum, popular actress, boasts that she has traveled a million miles during her career. She has just returned to this country from Europe, where she has been making an extended tour. Miss Gierum, known as the "traveling actress," was born in Denmark. She came to America and graduated from the American Academy of Dramatic Arts. Her recent trip abroad was marked with great success.

Green Edition Saves 'Visual Purple,' Says Dr. Proodian

How is your "Visual Purple?"

If it is not in good condition, or if you wish to keep it in the best condition, read the Boston American Green Edition.

DR. LEON PROODIAN.

What is this "Visual Purple?" Let Dr. Leon Proodian, well-known optometrist of the Proodian Optical Co., No. 101 Tremont street, explain.

"The visual purple is a mysterious substance that covers the retina of the eye. It comes and goes, being renewed each time the eye is blinked, and being slowly dissipated when the eye is kept open.

"Just what it does is not known, but it has been shown that it renews the strength of the retina and that it dissipates more rapidly when the eye is compelled to look at a bright object. One is inclined to blink when looking at the sun shining on snow or white sand, because nature requires a more rapid renewal of the visual purple.

"Visual purple is so called because it is of a purplish shade when a post mortem cross section out of the eyeball is made, and because it is known to assist vision.

"Green, because it is less glaring than white, does not use up the visual purple so rapidly, and is therefore better and more restful to the eye. I wish to applaud the Boston American for having instituted a green edition."

HEARST PAPERS PRAISED FOR BONUS WORK

By Cosmopolitan News Service Staff Correspondent.

New Orleans, Oct. 16.—World War heroes today voiced their heartiest appreciation of the fight of the Hearst newspapers for the soldiers' adjusted compensation as the American Legion's national convention opened here.

"The wonderful fight of the Hearst newspapers is highly gratifying to every service man," declared National Commander Hanford J. MacNider. "I more than appreciate the stand of the publications and I am sure my sentiments are echoed by the great majority of the legion members.

"The support the Hearst newspapers have given the adjusted compensation fight is splendid and a continuation of that drive will mean much in the ultimate victory for the measure."

Sydney G. Gumpertz of New York, who as a member of the 132nd Infantry of Chicago, won the Congressional Medal of Honor and highest citations from Great Britain, France, Italy, Serbia and Montenegro, said he heard the Hearst bonus campaign widely approved by ex-service men.

Paul Martin, former commander of the Michigan department and a member of the National Legion Committee from that State, said:

"You always know where the Hearst papers stand on the bonus. They came out for it flat-footed and they've stood with the Legion without a waver. The Hearst papers have shown themselves to be friends of the former service man."

"Veterans of the World War are strong for William Randolph Hearst in California, where, at San Francisco, Oakland and Los Angeles he has backed them to the finish with his newspapers," declared Fred F. Rebergall, veteran's welfare board in California.

"The post of which I am a member in San Francisco, adopted a resolution commending the Hearst newspapers' work, and other posts throughout the State did likewise. The California ex-service man feels he has a real friend and champion in William Randolph Hearst."

WIRELESS RESCUES, THEN TRAPS FUGITIVE

San Francisco, Oct. 16. — Radio, which saved the life of Leslie Dewey Atkinson when the liner City of Honolulu burned at sea, then turned against him and caused his arrest. Today he was in custody on the charge of leaving with army funds from the post exchange at Pearl Harbor, near Honolulu. Atkinson's experience was recited in a copyrighted dispatch published by the San Francisco Chronicle today. Atkinson left Honolulu aboard the City of Honolulu, and when fate placed him on the rescue ship, the transport Thomas, marines identified him. Radio communication with Pearl Harbor resulted in the order for his arrest.

2 DEAD, 60 HURT IN CLASH IN BERLIN

By International News Service.

Berlin Oct. 16.—Two dead, sixty wounded and 100 persons in jail were the net results today of Sunday's clashes between Nationalists and Communists—the first bloody skirmish on the eve of the "Winter of Fate" to which all Germany is looking with dread as the real test of the German republic.

The police have announced a reward of 5,000 marks for information as to the instigators of the fighting.

The trouble began when Communists tried to break up a meeting of the League for Freedom and Order.

Six thousand persons took part in the fighting.

CALLS MAN IN HEART SUIT "SECOND SHEIK"

Police to Probe Garland's 'Love Nest'

SOUL MATE DEFENDS IDEALS

Middleboro Upset by Chicken Coop Love Triumvirate on Millionaire's Farm

Middleboro, Oct. 16.—While Charles Garland, millionaire eccentric, and his two mental mates may be solving the great problems af life with their platonic triumvirate Chief Alden Sisson of the police department is frankly skeptical.

And the chief stoutly avers that he is just going to look into the goings on around the Garland "chicken coop," where the three are living together.

The "mental" mate business and spiritual attachments may be all right, but the good folk of this community just cannot quite understand, hence the keen interest of the upholders of law and order.

NO JEALOUSY IN NEST.

Doris Benson, Amherst College graduate, newest mental mate, dons her overalls and swings a hoe alongside of Miss Alice Edgerton, third angle of the strange mental triangle, to both help Garland till his land, in spite of the queer situation of two women mates and only one man mate, there is no such "base feeling as jealousy," if one accepts the word of Miss Edgerton.

"There is no jealousy between Doris and me," she averred. "Our relationship does not inspire such feeling. Our friendship with Mr. Garland is purely platonic."

Chimed in comely Doris, "We have eliminated the usual complications of feminine competition. We have a regular division of labor, so that all of us share the burden of the community."

COMMUNITY IS IDEAL.

"Our little community is ideal—an utopia. Together we work and play and study. We go to concerts and theatres, but our real life is lived here."

Neither Charles nor Doris nor Alice are at all stingy—in fact, more mental mates are welcome at the Garland farm, or at least such is the impression gained from Doris' statement.

Said she: "This place does not exclude those who come here in sincerity of purpose. There may be others, similarly minded, who will join us later. Just now we three are perfectly contented. We have found happiness, peace, and we intend to live here for the rest of our lives."

Miss Edgerton admitted that Charles has some unusual ideas on the question of love.

Asserting that she was not entirely "caught up" with all of Charles' ideas on love, Alice defended herself with, "He is extremely radical in his ideas on love, and I will not say that I accept them entirely.

"Nevertheless, I believe if I had been in his place I would have done exactly as he has."

SEEK WIFE MISSING FROM BOYLSTON HOME

Boylston, Oct. 16.—Police searched today for Mrs. W. Earl Haskins, who they were told left her husband and three children Saturday, after a quarrel. Mrs. Haskins is twenty-six years old, five feet and five inches tall, weighs 140 pounds, and has dark hair and blue eyes. She wore a light dress, a brown polo coat with fur collar and cuffs, and a brown hat on which were two plumes.

BOY INJURED IN TRIPLE AUTO SMASH

Two trucks and a sedan car played a game of billiards in Scollay square today, and William Dean Gelis, 18 years old, is at the Relief Hospital on the danger list, suffering from a punctured lung, possible internal injuries and a wrenched spine, as a result of being caught between the two trucks.

The accident occurred when a sedan, driven by Leo C. Waible of No. 22 Parker Hill avenue, Roxbury, ran into a truck driven by William J. McGrail of No. 95 Monatuna street, causing this truck to run into a larger truck, driven by John E. Penney of No. 34 Creighton street, Cambridge.

Gelis was riding at the rear of the larger truck. He was taken to the hospital by Traffic Officer John J. McArdle.

URGE PRAYERS TO CURB CRIME HERE

Greater Boston would have less crimes if people would try a weekly prayer meeting in the churches, declared speakers today in Chipman Hall before a gathering of Baptist ministers.

Rev. Dr. L. R. Nies, pastor of the Methodist Church, Somerville, one of the speakers, urged all ministers to help popularize these weekly meetings in this section.

'GLAND THIEVES' ARE FOILED BY WAR VETERAN

Hair-breadth escape from "gland thieves" is the climax of what the police of Lynn and Revere surmise is the tale of Charles Gardner, World War Veteran.

Gardner, who gives his address as No. 15 Vinton street, South Boston, was reported to be resting well today in Police Station 7 after a night in which he says he was kidnaped, kicked, beaten, lashed hand and foot to the tracks of the Narrow Gauge railroad near Beachmont.

He finally escaped when a train appeared as his three captors were preparing to operate on him for his glands.

The police are puzzled by the fact that Gardner was not robbed. When John F. McLoughlin of Medford, who picked Gardner up in his automobile, arrived at the Lynn police station with the battered man there were more than $14 in his pockets.

Gardner showed lacerations around his body to bear out his story.

FITCHBURG MILL STRIKE CALLED OFF

Fitchburg, Oct. 16.—The textile strike, effective at the three mills of the Park Hill Manufacturing Company here the last twenty-nine weeks, was ended by vote of the 300 strikers who still remained out of work.

8 NEAR DEATH IN HARBOR

Men in Motor Boat Damaged by Steamer Win Fight to Reach Shore

Three inches separated eight men from death in Boston Harbor. Run down by a coal steamer that failed to stop, they managed to make East Boston shore by furiously bailing.

The Nocealula of Pensacola, running slowly through the dense fog, crashed into the frail C-3082, small motorboat, midway in Broad Sound, between Graves and Boston lights.

A gaping hole three feet across, was ripped in the bow. The lower edge of the rent was scarcely three inches above the water line.

Water sloshed through the opening, bucketsfull at a time. So alarming was the situation that two men, father and son, leaped over the side and swam to the trailing tender.

In spite of the fog and the danger of crashing head on into rocks or other obstacles, they put on all speed, all hands bailing with every available article.

Reporting their accident to Lieutenant Swendeman of the harbor police, the men said they had been fishing. They gave the following names and addresses, all in East Boston:

VICTIMS OF ACCIDENT.

Andrew Lathi and Charles Lathi, No. 85 Byron street.

John Sonderson and Arnold Sonderson, No. 305 East Eagle street.

Gustaf Elizan and Cunnard Elizan of No. 111 Condor street.

Emil Hollander, No. 110 Putnam street.

John Jackson, No. 72 Byron street.

All told how when the fog settled down they started homeward, ringing a big bell as the boat felt her way along.

Suddenly there burst from the void the towering black hulk of the collier. It was less than ten feet distant. Frantically the helmsman put the wheel over. The little boat bobbed around, was struck and driven off board as the collier sped past.

SEATS FOR 3,000 AT B. U. "NAVY DAY"

Seats for 3,000 have been reserved for alumni and guests, in addition to faculties and student bodies from the various departments of Boston University for the annual Fall convocation to be held at the Boston Arena on Navy Day, October 27, with Rear-Admiral William S. Sims as the guest of honor.

Ruth Stickney of Boston, a student at the College of Secretarial Science, will lead her department in cheers. Miss Stickney, with athletic inclination, is well able to put her department "over the top," for, as her mates say, "Stick' is there when it comes to pep." She will be assisted by Gertrude Miller of Lexington, who will lead the girls in songs.

A sword carried by General Butrick at the battle of Concord Bridge in the Revolution will be presented to Governor Cox tomorrow. The speech of presentation will be made in behalf of the Butrick family by the Rev. Edward A. Horton, chaplain of the State Senate.

SPEEDERS HALTED BY SHOTS

Three Arrests Follow Chase of Mystery Auto From Back Bay

Racing fifty miles an hour through Boston and Cambridge streets, firing his pistol repeatedly, Motorcycle Officer Adair of the Back Bay Station captured Earl S. Bradley and two other men.

Jumping from the bullet-riddled car, the trio attempted to resist arrest, but were overpowered.

Strange actions of men in an automobile on Peterborough street caused neighbors to telephone a complaint.

As Patrolman Haskins turned the corner to investigate, the machine leaped past him at terrific speed and disappeared toward Massachusetts avenue.

Turning on two wheels the car headed for Cambridge. Adair at the Boston end of Harvard bridge, ordered the driver to halt. Instead he increased his speed. The officer pursued, firing the first shot just over the Cambridge side of the bridge.

Eventually, at Albany street, one of the shots found its mark, the gasoline tank. As the fuel leaked out and the auto slowed down, the men jumped out and made for Adair.

Officer Haskins, pursuing in a police touring car, came up as the three were fighting off Adair. The policemen fought fiercely for five minutes before they subdued the trio.

Arraigned in the Roxbury Court, Mahon and Fitzpatrick were fined $15 each for intoxication. Bradley was given two months in the House of Correction for operating a machine while under the influence of liquor, fined $15 for intoxication and $10 each for operating without registration and without a license. He paid the latter two fines and appealed the remainder of the sentence.

GIRL SMILES; ONE SHOT, SIX HELD

Lucy Bruno, brunette and vivacious, danced and smiled.

Pasquale Vanelli watched and glowered.

Lucy looked at "Patsy" and laughed.

He cursed. And the light was on.

Shots alarmed the neighborhood.

Patsy came tumbling to the street, blood pouring from his right leg. He jumped in his automobile and drove to East Boston Relief Hospital. He refused to talk.

Police later took into custody as suspicious persons Lucy, who lives at No. 127 Condor street and whose coat bore blood stains, Mrs. Anna Vagus and Miss Emma Costa, Amando Agiero, Joseph Pies and Sebastian Cudano.

Raiding officers say that previous to the shooting there had been much drinking of potent red wine.

Washington, Oct. 16.—The Supreme Court of the United States will take a recess from October 23 to November 13, Chief Justice Taft today announced.

When 'Dan and Emma' Were Friendly

"BEFORE THEIR ROMANCE CHILLED"

"The Alibi King" is the latest pet name of Emma Beauparlant for Dan Cashman, wealthy Haverhill resident, who, she declares, believes variety in women is the spice of life.

BROKER ADOPTS FISHER BOY OF CAMBRIDGE

Little Robert Fisher is on his way to find the end of the rainbow.

At the end of the rainbow, you know, is a pot of gold. This makes all the dreams a kid ever had come true.

Robert's mother is Mrs. Eleanor Fisher of No. 4 Lamson place, Cambridge. Mrs. Fisher has two other children. She also has a crippled husband who can't work. Consequently, the little family has been on the verge of utter destitution for a long time.

So Mrs. Fisher told the Boston American that she would give the boy away to anyone who would guarantee him a good home and an education. This, she said, would be better for Robert, and better for her also.

Reuben W. Carlton, a wealthy real estate broker of Goffstown, N. H., is the one who will adopt him. He guarantees Robert all the things that a boy needs to make him happy, and a good education.

Readers of the Boston American have responded generously to the self-sacrificing little mother's appeal for aid. More than $150 has been given her by them, including a $30 gift from an ex-service man, who said he was giving half of his monthly pay.

CHARGE ROXBURY MAN IS BIGAMIST

Mental mates may suit Charles Garland, but not Paul Squeo, plasterer. So Paul today faces difficulties.

His insistence for a material mate to share his board led to his arrest on a charge of bigamy.

Police say Paul has one wife and two children living in Italy and that he recently married Bridget McNamara. Both have been living on Dudley street.

HARVARD BANS "JAILING" OF STUDENTS

The hard-working press agent of the convict ship Success schemed a good scheme, he did.

He obtained two husky college men—G. A. Jones of Harvard, '25, and Hubert Williams of Tech, '23—who were to be leg ironed and handcuffed and put into a dungeon dreary. If they stayed one week they were to get $125 each, or if only one remained he would get the total.

The stage was set. Captain D. H. Smith and the press agent and some score or more interested collegians Came then Sophomore Smith with word that, at the eleventh hour, President Lowell had forbidden his incarceration on penalty of dismissal.

Captain Smith, much perturbed, telephoned President Lowell. According to the captain the Harvard head declared the scheme "scandalous," "disgraceful," "criminal" and so on and more.

SOLDIER HELD AS SLAYER OF GIRL

Halifax, N. S., Oct. 16.—Ralph Myles, a soldier, was held for trial today in the Supreme Court on a charge of murder. Myles, with a bullet wound in his breast, was found in a park recently beside the body of Florence Myles, who had been shot through the chest. He was at first held on a charge of attempted suicide, but last Saturday a murder complaint was preferred.

PRICE OF GASOLINE REDUCED ONE CENT

There was joy for automobile owners today. Wholesale and retail prices on gasoline dropped one cent.

The Standard Oil Company of New York, the Texas Company and the Jenney Manufacturing Company put the reduction in effect throughout the New England territory. The cut brings the retail price to 24 cents a gallon.

'ALIBI KING' WOOED 5, DECLARES MILLINER

Haverhill Girl Demands $50,000 From the Son of Wealthy Man

He loved the pet names she called him. So original, he said.

The last night he saw her she sprang an entirely new one: "The Alibi King."

Daniel Cashman, president of the Amesbury Gas Company, and head of the John Cashman Coal Corporation, one of Haverhill's wealthiest citizens, has been given many affectionate names by Emma Beauparlant, but his final title is "Alibi King."

Mlle. Beauparlant, the ardent-eyed, vivacious French beauty who is suing the coal baron for $50,000 for breach of promise, told a Boston American reporter the story of her chilled romance.

BELIEVES IN VARIETY.

"The Sheik has nothing on Dan Cashman. He demands a flock of women to make him happy. He believes that variety is the spice of romance. He brags that he's owned every make of automobile on the market. A little less openly he boasts that he's owned every make of woman on the market. Young or old, married or single, cheap or genteel, he understands them all!" said Miss Beauparlant.

"He told me that he had had a number of affairs before he met me, and that he never expected to look at another woman as long as he lived.

THOUGHT HIM CHANGED.

"'Emma, you have changed me. You are the most fascinating woman in the world. I would die for you, and I would not care to live a single day for another woman. You have filled me with noble thoughts and made me want to be the soul of honor.' That is what he told me over and over. I was deeply touched. He was enough of an artist to know that all women love to feel that they have an ennobling influence on a man.

"And at the same time that he was going with me and was engaged to marry me, and was raving to all of my relatives about how wonderful he thought I was, he was having four separate affairs with women."

Miss Beauparlant said she left her home and took a studio at 113 Winter street because her father once tried to tell her that Cashman was interested in other women.

WARNED BY FATHER.

"My father tried to warn me. I loved him so much that I wouldn't believe Dad. I flew into a rage and left home. I couldn't see how Dan could be lying to me when he seemed so sincerely in love with me. He couldn't restrain himself even when others were around. He seemed bubbling over with love for me, and he didn't seem to care who knew it.

The attractive milliner is fixed in her determination to fight to the end.

"If there is justice in the court, I shall have it. If there is no justice, I warn Dan Cashman to be careful. Other women have threatened to kill him. I am hot-blooded. I could not trust myself. I might carry out their threats!"

SHOT HALTS BOATS; RUM CARGOES SEIZED

New York, Oct. 16.—The prohibition navy speedboat Hahn today fired a one-pound shot across the bows of the schooner Emerald Digby, eight miles off the entrance to Jamaica Bay, and then seized the two-sticker and a motorboat named the Elsie, aboard both of which the prohibition agents claimed to have found whiskey—1,008 cases in all. Ten men found aboard the alleged rum-runners were arrested.

DOWNEY IS FAVORED TO BEAT SIEGAL IN PUNCHING DUEL

SLUGGING STARS FIT FOR TOUGH BATTLE

By JACK CONWAY.

Bryan Downey and Nate Siegal are expected to furnish the fans with all kinds of thrills when they clash in a ten-round bout at the Arena A. C.'s show at the Boston Arena tonight.

Nate Siegel

There won't be any stalling when this pair of middleweights get into action. They are both free swinging, heavy-hitting youths, who delight in standing toe to toe with an opponent and exchanging blow for blow.

Downey is rated as the hardest hitting middleweight in the world. He has scored knockdowns in bouts with Johnny Wilson, Jock Malone and Jack Britton, while he knocked Happy Littleton out.

Out through the Middle West it is said that Downey can knock out any man in the world he can hit on the chin with his celebrated right-hand smash.

Siegal is not worrying about Downey's socking power. Nate, on the other hand, is elated because he will be in the ring with an opponent who will stand up and fight with him.

The Beachmont warrior has done his best work against the heavy hitting boys. It will be remembered that Nate fought a sensational fight against Tommy Robson and won the decision by a comfortable margin. He also gave Mickey Walker a torrid tussle, being nosed out in a close fight.

Siegal weakened himself a great deal when he tried to battle as a welterweight. The welterweight notch of 145 pounds was too low for him. Nate would leave his strength on the road and in the gym.

This caused Messrs. Carter and Conley to decide to restrict Siegal's efforts to the middleweight division. Nate has put on a great deal of weight and is punching harder and showing more aggressiveness than he did in the past.

Siegal believes Downey can be beaten.

Siegal Is Confident He Will Defeat Downey

"Downey does his most effective work with his right," said Nate today. "Young Kloby and Tommy Robson were also right-hand punchers," continued the Beachmont youth. "And everybody knows how I got the best of those warriors. I kept smashing my way to close quarters which discounted the effectiveness of the right hand.

"As I would hurt myself forward I would cut a short right hand or left hook to the head or body. My short blow always beat the right hand wallop of my opponent.

"I prefer battling a free hitting man like Downey to going against the fast, elusive type of Miller, who tires you with his left and then dances out of harm's way. I will get plenty of enjoyment if Downey stands up and exchanges punches with me tonight."

If Siegal wins tonight he will be in a position to demand consideration from the leaders in the middleweight division.

Killilea Denies Gardner Aided Wilson Victory.

Marty Killilea will be at the ringside. The manager of world's middleweight champion, Johnny Wilson, will not be rooting for Downey to win.

"Jimmy Dunn, Tommy McGinity and the rest of the Downey managers are not very particular about sticking to the truth," said Killilea today. "It is absolutely false when they say that Referee Jimmy Gardner protected Wilson in his bout with Downey at Columbus, O. Downey did not knock Wilson out. Gardner very properly gave the decision to Wilson when Jimmy Dunn, Downey's manager, grabbed one of Wilson's legs.

"Wilson always was and always will be a better fighter than Downey. As for Jimmy Dunn, why does he not tell Boston fans the real reason why Johnny Kilbane canned him as manager?"

On account of the jam following the Malone-Karr bout, the Boxing Commission will assign its most competent officials to tonight's show.

The Arena Club, which has staged some brilliant boxing shows this year, will have special police inside of the building who will gently but firmly toss the screechers, if there should be any, out into the open air.

There will also be three eight-round bouts.

Frank Merna to Show His Skill

Whitey Allen, former New England amateur heavyweight champion, clashes with Jack Flaherty, late of the navy. Frank Merna, former amateur champion who made a great fight against Ernie Sawyer the other night, will oppose Johnny Foley of South Boston.

The semi-final will have Lew Palusa, the little featherweight sensation of Leo Flynn's stable, pitted against Frankie Conway of Philadelphia. Of course Conway, too, is good.

Winchendon Nine Wins

Fitchburg, Oct. 16.—Four thousand baseball fans watched the Winchendon Town Team, with Witt of the Yankees, defeat the Fitchburg Semi-Pros, 14 to 2. In the matter of stars both teams were matched, for McGuire of the Giants played for the home team.

Downey Picked by Conway to Win Punch Fest

"You'll see plenty of action at the Boston Arena tonight," says Jack Conway. "The Arena A. C. put over a real show with Shevlin and Shade," continued Jack, "and should do equally as well with Downey and Siegal tonight. Both warriors are terrific punchers and will stand in the centre of the ring and hammer away for dear life.

"Remember how Siegal belted his way to wins over Kloby and Robson? He certainly does like to sock with the rough boys. He'll get plenty of opportunities to show his punching power tonight, as Downey is as wide open as a gate.

"It should be a sweet punching match, with Downey's superior walloping power gaining for him the margin."

ALL-STAR CARD AT LYNN CLUB

The Casino A. C. of Lynn has arranged a card for its show on Thursday night that calls for forty rounds of action. Main bouters and so-called top-liners have been signed. Every boy on the card has appeared at the Casino Club and the fans are acquainted with their ability.

Billy Shine

Nick Madonna of Lexington and Young Neddeau of Cambridge, who made a great hit at the last show of this club, have been rematched for six rounds. These boys put up a whale of a bout when they met before.

Frankie Johnson of the West End and Young Garro of Boston clash in an eight-round bout in a match that the fans who patronize the Casino have been eager for ever since their last meeting. Johnson won the decision but if a draw had been allowed that surely would have been the verdict.

Paul DeSalvo and Billy Shine, both of Quincy, are down for eight rounds.

Buddy Clark is paired with Barney Epper of Boston for eight rounds.

Johnny Brown of Newport and Young Manty of New Bedford meet in a ten-round bout. Brown has won his last twenty-eight starts and his win over Mickey Travers at Berlin, N. H., proved him a boy of class.

CONCORD GOLF TITLE TOURNEY ON TUESDAY

The qualifying round for the women's golf championship will be played at the links of the Concord Country Club tomorrow afternoon.

The annual meeting of the club will be held in the clubhouse Saturday. David A. Baldwin is a candidate for re-election for president.

The final match in the consolation division of the club championship between Ralph Holden and N. Ellis Richardson will be played this week.

NORWOOD HAS 2 COMING STARS

Coach Benney Murray of Norwood High has the makings of two future college stars in Captain Dave Foren and Francis "Dud" Dower. Foren, because of his brilliant playing as a fullback, is leading the Norwood High football eleven for his second season.

David Foren

With four years of football experience packed away there is little doubt but that this youngster will be an asset on any of our college elevens.

Foren is a fine plunger of ability. It was his fine playing last season that helped Norwood to run through a schedule of ten games without a defeat. In addition to being a fine plunger, Foren is a kicker and thrower of forward passes.

Francis Dower

His work for Norwood was instrumental in the team defeating E. C. High and Putnam High of Connecticut.

Experts who have seen Francis Dower in action claim he is a second Luke Urban. "Dud" as he is known to the supporters of scholastic sports at Norwood is a deadly tackler. His fine work has been a big factor in Norwood's victories.

Dower has one more year under the wing of Coach Murray and hopes to enter Boston College.

DORCHESTER IN TIE WITH CARDINALS

Dorchester Town Club and Cambridge Cardinals met in a scoreless tie at Cambridge Field. In the first period Ronayne of the Cardinals made 60 yards after a forward pass, but was stopped a half yard from the goal line. Dorchester played better in the second half. Patterson had hard luck for an attempt at a goal from the field from the 25-yard line, striking the crossbar and bounding back.

Siki May Bowl Over Beckett Before Making His American Debut

By RINGSIDE.

Battling Siki has turned his back on Germany and is coming to the United States.

The conqueror of Georges Carpentier has not yet closed for a match to be staged under the direction of Tex Rickard, but it is expected that he will affix his signature to the articles of agreement within a few days.

Before coming to America, Siki may hop over to dear Ol' London to knock out Joe Beckett, who scored some kind of a victory over ancient Frank Moran the other evening.

Who will be Siki's opponent when he makes his American debut?

Harry Wills, colored heavyweight champion, wants to get the first shot at Siki.

WILLS GREAT FIGHTER.

Wills is a great fighter and would have a chance of winning even against Dempsey.

Wills would probably go to the post a heavy favorite if he were to battle the European light-heavyweight and heavyweight champion.

Kid Norfolk would also like to battle Siki. Norfolk is the colored light-heavyweight champion of America. He would be an even match for Siki.

Lee Anderson, Boston negro light-heavyweight, also is anxious to battle the Senegalese.

Then don't overlook Harry Greb, American light-heavyweight champion, and Gene Tunney.

Our own Johnny Wilson would also be tickled at the opportunity of testing his fighting power against that of Siki.

If Siki wins his American debut, he will be given an opportunity to battle Jack Dempsey some time next year.

"Tiger Jack" would like to battle Siki about the Fourth of July and take on Harry Wills in a Labor Day bout.

DEMPSEY SEEKS ACTION.

America's wonder man wants to fight. And he isn't the least bit particular who his opponent is.

Meanwhile Siki is preparing to come to America.

Naturally fight fans are eager to see him in action.

Is he a real fighter or just another Bill Squires?

Wills, Norfolk, Anderson, Greb or Tunney will receive the opportunity to give the answer to the American public.

PERE MARQUETTES WIN FROM ADRIAN A. C.

Pere Marquette Council Knights of Columbus defeated the Adrian A. C. of Roxbury on the new Aquarium Park, City Point, South Boston, 6 to 0. More than 12,000 fans witnessed the Knights win. For three periods elevens battled hard without a score. Several times the Kay see outfit was within scoring distance but was penalized for offside play.

Pere Marquette won the game after about eight minutes of play in the fourth period when the Adrains mad the ball on their own 25-yard line. A punt was blocked and Santry recovered the ball and ran to the three-yard line.

The visitors put up a very stiff defence and allowed the Knights to gain only a few inches on three downs. But on the fourth play Higgins went through tackle for a touchdown.

The bright lights of the game for the Pere Marquette eleven were: McNevin, Flansky, Higgins, Phillips and Carr, and for the Adrians Nayor, LePlant, Levinson, Fay and Filley.

Middlesex Plays Friday

Middlesex School will play its annual game with Huntington School, in North Concord, on Saturday.

TRAVERS MEETS SHUBERT TONIGHT

Mickey Travers, one of the best 126-pound boys in the East, will battle Al Shubert in a ten-round bout at New Bedford tonight. There is a world of interest in this match. It was years that when these boys cleaned recently the decision went to Travers. This caused the Shubert rooters to put up a screech.

Mickey Travers

Being a regular fighter, Travers didn't object to a return match. Vic Richardson's rugged puncher says he will repeat his win this evening.

FORMER BRAVE IS CHAMP HITTER

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 16—Paul Strand, a former Brave center fielder, for the Salt Lake City team of the Pacific Coast League, broke the record in organized baseball for number of hits in one season. While playing against Seattle he made two singles, bringing his total for the season to 283. The record was previously held by Kirke, of the Louisville American Association team, made in 1920.

Paul Strand.

WINCHESTER IN A TOP TIE WITH ARLINGTON

Winchester and Arlington are in a top tie for the lead in the Mystic Valley Interscholastic Football League.

Three league games are booked this week. On Friday Woburn will be entertained at Waltham and on Saturday, Arlington plays at Wakefield, and Winchester will take on Melrose.

The league standing follows:

	Won.	Lost.	Pct.
Winchester	2	0	1.000
Arlington	1	0	1.000
Melrose	0	0	.000
Watertown	0	0	.000
Wakefield	0	1	.000
Woburn	0	2	.000

DETROIT GAME A HARD TEST FOR EAGLE

Boston College is preparing for one of the biggest games of the season, which will be played on Saturday with the University of Detroit at Detroit.

Although the Eagle already has overcome Boston University and Fordham, two first class elevens, the contest with Detroit will be as hard as both these games combined.

It will be remembered that the Red and White team from the fllvver city was the first team in two years to humble the Maroon and Gold. With a powerful line that held against the attacks of the B. C. backfield, and a backfield that literally smashed the Eagle line, Detroit won a brilliant victory over Cavanaugh's men.

In the opinion of Coach Duffey, Detroit has a team as strong if not stronger than that of last year. Four linesmen and three backs of last season are again in the Detroit lineup.

Speed Ellis and Gus Sonnenberg, the mainstays of the Red and White line, will again oppose Boston College. Both Ellis and Sonnenberg ranked with the best tackles in the game, and it is expected that they will prove as stiff a barrier to the B. C. backs as they did last Fall.

The guard positions will be as strong as the tackles. Tom McNamara, a regular vet, will hold one position, while Harry Klein, a 240-pound chunk, will fill the other place.

Flannery, a Big, Fast Man, Probably Will Play Centre

Flannery, a big and fast man, probably will play centre. He has done very good work in the games Detroit has already played, and although a freshman, Coach Duffey considers him a promising pivot man.

McKenna, the elusive quarterback, will direct the attack against the Boston invaders. McKenna's fast, shifty playing had the B. C. line baffled. He is every bit as good this year, and will be a constant threat to the Boston College eleven.

Loomis at left half and Welch at full, are two more backfield veterans. Vreeland will probably play at right half.

Coach Cavanaugh has only two or three days in which to do a great deal of work. As the team must leave for Detroit by Thursday at the latest, three days is all he will have to strengthen the B. C. line.

JOE TIPLITZ TO TACKLE MARKS

Joe Tiplitz.

The supporting cast to the Joe Tiplitz - Nid Marks eight-round number at the Olympia A. A., in Philadelphia, on October 23 will be Frankie McGuire and Vincent Lopes, Willie Harmon and Ray Mitchell. Leonard Young and Bob by Burman, Manager Miller and George Siddons. Plenty of action is assured.

ST. JOSEPH'S BILLS AMATEUR BOUTS

The St. Joseph's T. A. Society will stage another bang-up amateur boxing show at Commercial Hall, Bowdoin Square, Thursday night. There will be bouts at 112, 118, 126, 135 and at 160 pounds. Entries close Wednesday with Frank Hannon, No. 95 Cambridge street.

Will Play Wednesday

Billerica, Oct. 16—The postponed football game Saturday between the Mitchell Military Boys' School eleven and the Allen Military School of second team of West Newton will be played here on Wednesday.

2 STAR BOUTS BOOKED FOR MAT FANS

There will be an all-star wrestling show staged at the Grand Opera House Thursday night under the direction of the Old Howard management.

The feature bout will bring together Nuti Hervumpa, the Terrible Finn, and George Kotsonmaros, Greek champion.

Hervumpa is not a champion, but he is by far the best man Kotsonaros has signed to meet since coming East. Hervumpa, a 260-pound giant, makes John Perelli and John Kilonis look like perfect gentlemen when it comes to pulling rough stuff on the mat.

The other big bout will bring together Ivan Michaloff, the Russian Cossack, and Lawson Pinkham, the Athlesco giant.

In the opening tussle, Joe Perelli of Manchester will oppose Frank Dutcher, Pacific Coast light-heavyweight.

The final bout will be to a positive finish, best two falls out of three.

The other matches will also be finish affairs, but will be one fair contests.

Sam Smith will referee.

JOE BURMAN TO GET LYNCH BOUT

Joe Burman, the Chicago bantamweight star, will shortly obtain the wish of his young life, for he has been practically matched to fight Joe Lynch for the world's bantamweight title at Madison Square Garden within a few weeks. Burman has been after a title bout for many years but every champion sidestepped him. In two decisions Burman has beat 'em all, which accounted for his failure to get a whack at the crown. He has now reached the stage where the chance is in sight and it is up to him to make good.

Joe Burman

St. Patrick's C. C. Wins

PARKER PREDICTIONS RIGHT ON BIG GAMES

By CHARLES E. PARKER.

Before crashing into our discussion of the Iowa-Yale conflict the boss insists that we remind this mundane sphere and its struggling humans of certain predictions which appeared in this column last Friday.

Wherefore, blushing erubescently, we recall to your mind our warning to be surprised at no surprises on Saturday, and our specific statement that the underdog in each of the six most important contests in the East Yale-Iowa Pittsburgh-West Virginia Brown-Syracuse Michigan-Vanderbilt Carnegie Tech-Washington and Jefferson, and Princeton-Colgate—was pretty apt to come forth snarling and with his tail wagging.

And what happened?

BRIGHTON MUST FIGHT TO BEAT DEDHAM

By FRED C. LANE.

Brighton High will display its football wares on an after field this afternoon against Dedham High at Dedham As most of the Brighton games are listed for Braves Field this contest will give Coach Tom Scanlon an idea what his lads can do on strange grounds

There is little doubt, even at this early stage of the game, that Brighton High is the best Boston high school football team So easily did Coach Scanlon win his games in the local circuit he was also to pull out his scoring aces, Captain Tom Lydon and Joe McKenney, on several occasions

However, after Dedham's 80 to 0 win over Needham High, a fairly good team, it is certain that the services of the Brighton stars will be needed through out the game to insure a win

Coach Sutherland's eleven was one of the leaders in Norfolk county last year, same eleven is on hand for this season's campaign.

Brighton has a man's size job to win

Newton will receive its real test on Saturday playing Somerville on Fairfax Field, Newton. Everett held the Garden City eleven to no-score on the holiday and completely outrushed Coach Dickinson's charges

It is said that last year's Somerville team was stronger than the Everett contingent. If true, Somerville will give the Newton team its second hard battle of the season Coach Ayer of Somerville has a fine scoring backfield Captain Blackman Danny McFayden and Fullback Wells have been the mainstays in the scoring

Unless the three are exceptionally fast in getting started they have much to fear from Johnson the right tackle on the Newton team. Without doubt he is one of the foremost schoolboy tacklers

The performance in the Everett game prevented the Everett back field from scoring a touchdown Any lad that can kick off for his team and make the tackle is deserving of much praise.

The most important conflict in the North Shore League circuit will be staged at Marblehead Saturday when Coach Ray Pendleton's boys meet Lynn Classical on their own grounds.

This game may decide the championship for both are the foremost contenders for supreme honors. Lynn Classical gave a fine exhibition of football against Haverhill on Columbus Day But for a fumble on the Haverhill five-yard line Lynn would have scored on Coach Broderick's charges

Marblehead High has confined all its activities to North Shore teams,

CUBS TAKE THE SERIES FROM WHITE SOX

Chicago, Ill., Oct 16 —Grover Alexander banked the White Sox, 3 to 0, and won the title of Chicago's city championship for the Cubs, four games to three

It was the first time that the Cubs won an ace has been able to win from the White Sox in three series. The victory of the Cubs was the first since 1909

The game, the seventh of the series was a pitching duel between the Cub star and Dixie Leverette, the former outpitching his youthful rival

The break came in the sixth inning After two men had been retired Leverette weakened and walked Grimes Hollocher replacing Parker who had been ordered out of the game for protesting a decision of Umpire Hart An error and a single in right sending Grimes to third. Miller drove Grimes home with a smash to right which was enough to win for Alexander and in every contest has been successful Both coaches realize that the success of the game and will devote all the daily practise for the MAN AND MAID — By Elinor Glyn

Latest and Best Novel by the Noted Author of "Three Weeks," "Family" and Other Great Stories

By Elinor Glyn

BUT I did not feel altogether hopeless until Burton came in to tell me lunch was ready and said that Alathea had gone.

"The young lady said as how she would not be back, she expected, and she took her own pens and things in her bag. She was as white as a lily, give you my word, Sir Nicholas."

I am ashamed to say that I felt a little faint then. Had I overstepped the mark, and should I never see her again?

A whole party of the fluffies were coming to dinner, and we were to have a very gay evening. I ordered my one-horse Victoria and went for a drive in the Bois, to calm myself, and the trees, with their early Autumn tints, seemed to mock at me. I could see too much beauty in them, and it hurt. Everything hurt. This was certainly the worst afternoon I have had to bear since I came to on No Man's Land near Langemarke. But I suppose at dinner I played the game, for Cornélis and the rest congratulated me.

"Getting quite well, Nicholas! And of a chic! Va!"

We played poker afterwards, and the stakes were high, and I was the winner the whole time, until I could see anxiety creep into more than one eye (pair of eyes! I have got so accustomed to writing of eyes in the singular that I forget!) We had quantities of champagne and some exotic musicians Maurice had procured for me, and a nude Hindoo dancer.

Everyone went more or less mad.

They left about 4 in the morning, all rather drunk, if one must write it. But the more I had drunk the more hideously sober and filled with anguish I seemed to become, until when I had called the last cheery good-night and was at last alone in my bed, I felt as if it had end had come and that death would be the next and only good thing which could happen to me.

What Has Gone Before

Sir Nicholas Thormonde, a wealthy Englishman, wounded and blinded in one eye in action, starts writing his diary in Paris while the war is still on. He is sick of life. The war has robbed it of all that a young man can find of joy. He tries to amuse himself in the company of several women friends, who, he feels, seek his company for his money and not for the love he craves. He starts to write a book and hires a typist, Miss Sharp. He falls in love with her and serves notice on the "Fluffies." She refuses to give him her address. Nicholas asks her to marry him as a business proposition.

I have never before had this strange detached sense in such measure as this night—as if a hungry agonized spirit standing outside its wretched body, and watching its feeble movements, conscious of their futility, conscious of being chained to the miserable thing, and only knowing rebellion and agony.

Burton gave me a sleeping draught, and I slept far into the next day, to awake more unhappy than ever, obsessed with self-contempt and degradation.

In the afternoon I received a note from Maurice, telling me that he had inadvertently heard that a fellow in the American Red Cross had seen Miss Sharp's passport, when she had been sent down to Brest for them, and the name on it was Alathea Bulteel Sharp, and judging that the second name sounded as if it might be a well-known English one, he hastened to tell me in case it should be a clue. I could not think where I had heard it before, or with what memory it was connecting in my brain.

I had a feeling it was something to do with George Harcourt. I puzzled for a while and then I looked back over the pages of my journal and there found what I had written of his conversation—Bobby Bulteel Harteiford's brother—cheating at cards—and married to Lady Hilda Marchant—"

Of course!— The whole thing became plain to me! This would account for everything. I hobbled up and down the portage. I turned to the Harteiford title, and noted the brothers—and Hon'bles—John Sinclair, Charles Henry, and Robert Edgar. This last must be "Bobby." Then I read the usual things—"Educated at Eton and Christchurch, etc., etc.," "Left the Guards in 1897," "Married in 1894—Lady Hilda Farwell, only daughter of the Marquess of Braxted (title extinct) and divorced wife of William Marchant, Esquire." "Issue—"

"Alathea—born 1894, John Robert—born 1905, and Hilda—born 1907."

So the whole tragic story seemed to unfold itself before me.

Alathea is the child of that great love and sacrifice of her mother. I read again the words George had used: "She adored the fellow, who had every charm." All the world might cast him out, but that one faithful woman gave up home and name and honor to follow him in his disgrace.

That was love indeed, however misplaced! I looked again at the dates and made a calculation of the time divorce took then, and I saw that my darling girl could only have escaped illegitimacy by perhaps a few hours!

What had her life been? I pictured it. They must have hidden diminished heads in the hole and corner places during the dreary years. Such a man as Bobby Bulteel must have been, as George said, a weakling. The Harteiferds were poor as church mice and were not likely to assist a scapegrace who had dishonored them. I remembered hearing that on the old Lord Braxted's death years ago Braxted was sold to the Merion-Walters, iron-founders from Leeds. No doubt the old man had cut his daughter off without the traditional shilling, but even so, some hundreds a year must have been theirs. What then did the poverty of Alathea suggest? That some constant drain must be going on all the time. Could the scapegrace still be a gambler, and that could account for it? This seemed the most probable explanation.

Then all over me there rushed a mad worship for my little love, utter splendid selflessness, her noble self-sacrifice, her dignity, her serenity. I could have kissed the ground under her feet.

I made Burton spend untold time telephoning to the Embassy, and then to Versailles to Colonel Harcourt. "Would he not dine with me? He was sorry he was engaged, but he would lunch the next day. Then when the long evening was in front of me alone I could hardly bear it. And, driven to desperation at last, when Burton was undressing me, I said to him:

"Did you ever know anything of the Harteiferds, Burton? Bulteel is the family name?"

"Can't say as I did personally, Sir Nicholas," he answered, "but, of course, when I was a young boy taking my first Eton-Sandhurst's place, before I came to your father, Sir Guy, at Her Grace of Willshire's, I could not help hearing of the scandal about the cheating at cards. The whole nobility and gentry was put to about it, and nothing else was talked of at dinner."

"Try and tell me what you remember of the story."

So Burton held forth in his own way for a quarter of an hour. There had been no possible doubt of the crime, it was the week after the Derby, and Bulteel had lost heavily, he said. He was caught red-handed and got off abroad that night, and the matter would have been hushed up probably but for the added sensation of Lady Hilda's elopement with him. That set society by the ears, and the thing was the thrill of the season. Mr. Marchant had been "all broken up" by it, and delayed the divorce so that as far as Burton could remember, Captain Bulteel could not marry Lady Hilda for more than a year afterwards. All this coincided with what I already knew. Lord Braxted, too, "took on fearful," and died of a broken heart, it was said, leaving every cent to charity. The entail had been cut in the generation before and the title became extinct at his death.

I did not tell Burton then of my discovery, and lay long hours in the dark, thinking and thinking.

What did the Duchesse's attitude mean? In the eyes of the Duchesse de Courville-Hautevine, née Adelaide de Mont Orgeuil—to cheat at cards would be the worst of all the cardinal sins. Such a man as Bobby Bulteel must be separated from his kind. She knew Lady Hilda probably (the Duchesse often stayed in England with my mother) and she probably felt a disapproving pity for the poor lady. The great charity of her mind would be touched by suffering, if the suffering was apparent, and perhaps she had some affection for the girl Alathea.

But no affection could hide the guilt which separated the child of an outcast from the world. The sins of the father would inevitably be visited upon the children by an unwritten law, and although she might love Alathea herself, she could not countenance her union with me. The daughter of a man who had cheated at cards could go into a convent. I instinctively felt somehow that this could be her viewpoint.

Does Alathea know this tragedy about her father? Has she had to live always under this curse? Ah! The pity of it all.

Morning found me more restless and miserable than I have ever been, and it brought no sign of my love!

George Harcourt was called suddenly to Rome that morning and I even hearing him talk further about the Bulteels was denied me for the time. I passed some days of the cruelest unrest. There was no sign of Alathea. I allowed Maurice to drag me out into the world and spent my evenings among my kind.

A number of my old pals have been killed lately, such an irony when the war seems to be drawing to a close! There is still an atmosphere of tension and unrestfulness in the air though.

After an awful week George Harcourt came back and dropped in to see me. I opened fire at once and asked him to tell me all that he knew of the Bulteels, especially his old brother officer Bobby.

"I have a particular reason for asking, George," I said.

"Very curious your speaking of them, Nicholas, because there has just been the devil of a fuss in the French Foreign Legion about that infernal blackguard; came to my knowledge in my work."

"Has he been cheating at cards again?"

George nodded.

"Tell me from the beginning."

So he started—many of the bits I already knew. Lady Hilda had been a great friend of his and he dwelt upon the life of suffering she had had.

There were a few years of frantic love and some sort of happiness, I expect, and then funds began to give out, and Bobby's insane desire to gamble led him into the shadiest society, at Baden Baden and Nice, and other warm spots. Poor Hilda used to go about with him then in a shamed, defiant way, running from any old friend, or staring over his head. I happened upon them once or twice in my wanderings; then I lost sight of them for some years, and the next thing was someone told me the poor woman had broken down and was a nervous wreck, and two children had been borne in quick succession when the first one was about eleven years old, and the whole family were in miserable straits. I think relations paid up that time—with the understanding that no more again were they to be appealed to, and since then I have had nothing until the other day when I came to my ears that the eldest girl—she must be over twenty now, was supporting the entire family. One of the children died lately, and now Bobby has put the cap on it. I am sorry for them, but Bobby is impossible."

Oh! My poor little girl, what a life! How I longed to take her out of it!

He went on.

"Strange how certain instincts show themselves under every condition. Bobby was no physical coward, and to talk to a man with casualty, the most perfect gentleman you ever met. Awfully well read and a topper at classics and history, and was like a bird. He had the grand manner, and could attract any woman, though, to give the devil his due, I believe for some years he was faithful to Lady Hilda."

"I should think so!" I said indignantly. "After accepting her great sacrifice!"

"Nothing lasts, my dear boy, that is fundamental. Bobby was a rotter through and through, and he couldn't even behave decently to the woman who had given everything for him. There's something in human beings which is unaccountable, when they are well bred, made him join the French Foreign Legion immediately the war broke out, and behave with great gallantry."

Madame de Clerte exclaimed at my improved appearance.

CLOSE RADIO TUNING

THE advent of the 400-meter broadcasting station which operates simultaneously with a 360-meter station, has brought special problems of tuning to the radio fan which have been answered by C. W. Horn, superintendent of radio operations for the Westinghouse Company.

Many of the radio receivers now in use were not built for close tuning, as this was unnecessary when all broadcasting stations worked on the same wave length. The difficulty that now faces the listeners is that of tuning in to one station and excluding another station of only forty meters difference.

One of the greatest faults, according to Horn, is excessively large antennas. Such antennas make it more difficult to tune sharply, and for this reason it is well to have a comparatively short antenna, say 75 feet, measuring from the apparatus to the far end.

Measurements and resonance curves drawn by experts show that a short, low antenna tunes more sharply than a large and long antenna. This holds true for both coupled and single circuit tuners.

The antenna should be stretched some distance away from any metallic object, and the lead-in should not run over metal roofs, along water spouts or drains, or parallel to telephone and power lines.

Another method of preventing interference is the use of a loop. By swinging the loop so that it points in the direction of the station which is to be heard stations in other directions will be largely cut out. The loop requires, of course, several stages of amplification or a super-regenerative receiver.

Occasionally, especially where the receiver is located near a powerful broadcasting station, it will be impossible to tune out a station even with the best of apparatus.

A two or three-circuit receiver will cut out much more sharply than a single circuit and will eliminate other interference as well to a large extent.

As little capacitance as possible should be used in a receiving circuit if sharp tuning is desired. Instead of a large condenser across the secondary of a coupler, use a small one. In constructing couplers, make a tens and unit switch and omit the condenser altogether or use a very small one. If you use a vacuum tube, put a variometer in the grid and plate circuits and use no condenser whatever.

ANSWERS TO RADIO FANS

L. K., Newton—It is generally impossible to cut out all of the whistling note that occurs in a super-regenerative. It is possible, however, to cut it so low that it does not noticeably interfere with the music. This is effected by the filter, which is generally a resistance coil shunted by a variable condenser. If the whistle persists unpleasantly it may be that the oscillator tube is not oscillating at the proper frequency, which is about 15,000 cycles.

F. J. N., South Boston.—At present Congress has the sole right of fixing the wave length which broadcasting stations may use. This is why a variety of wave lengths have been assigned. The White bill, which has been several times shelved, would allow the Department of Commerce to fix the wave lengths within certain limits. Special Class B licenses, which have been awarded to stations in two cities, allow broadcasting at 400 meters, and various government matter may be broadcasted at 485 meters.

R. L. A., Mattapan—WJZ now has a woman announcer, but I know of no other. You may have heard some kind of a lecture by some woman. Anyway, you do not give enough particulars to allow the station to be identified.

ANSWER TO ETIQUETTE PROBLEM

Never speak of your husband as "Mr." except to a servant. Say "my husband" to a stranger; "Tom" to a friend.

DAILY DRESS PATTERN

The Boston American will mail this pattern to any address on receipt of 10 cents.

Be sure to give size when ordering. Please use care in making name and address legible. A new style book containing 500 illustrations will be sent on receipt of 10 cents. Write Pattern Dept., Boston American, 50 Summer street, Boston 3, Mass.

A NEAT AND PRACTICAL "APRON FROCK"

4003. It will take but a few moments to adjust this trim and comfortable garment. One could make it of figured percale with a finish of rick rack—or feather edge—braid. The closing is at the side under the facing. Fit black sateen with cretonne for trimming, or a crepe in a pretty shade of yellow with bands of white, it makes a smart "tea" frock.

The pattern is cut in 4 sizes: small, 34-36; medium, 38-40; large, 42-44; extra large, 46-48 inches bust measure. A medium size requires 4¼ yards of 36-inch material. The width at the foot is about 2½ yards.

Beyond Hope

A school teacher was relating some of her experiences in different schools. "I taught school among my own people for several years after I graduated from college, but when I began in another district singular things happened. Hearing a boy say, 'I ain't gwine there,' I said to him: 'That's not the way to speak. Listen: I am not going there; he is not going there; we are not going there; you are not going there; they are not going there. Have you got the idea?' 'Yes, sir; I've got it all right. There ain't nobody gwine.'"

FORBES' VIEWS ON FINANCE

By B. C. Forbes

Among the latest developments and trends are:

Workers at many points are becoming scarcer than work.

Railroads are being offered the largest volume of traffic in their history.

The cost of living has turned upward.

Wages are rising rather than falling.

Postal receipts—a significant barometer—are increasing substantially.

Farmers are realizing good prices for the food animals they are now sending to market.

The South is turning cotton into cash on profitable terms.

Wheat prices have kept up somewhat better than widely expected.

* * *

The ratio of bank reserves to deposits last week fell almost two per cent. and is now only seven per cent. above a year ago.

Gold is being put into circulation very freely by banks—indicating that higher rates for money are aimed at.

Call money in New York last week rose to six per cent., and other loans were made at firm rates.

* * *

Fewer new issues of securities are being floated—because of the dullness of the market's edge than because most large corporations have already covered their capitalistic requirements for quite some time to come.

Stocks quoted on the New York Stock Exchange again touched a new high level last week.

Bond quotations have moved down from the year's high point.

Excitement over events in Turkey vanished as suddenly as it appeared.

German marks continue to sink to new low levels and threaten to continue to decline until a final crisis is reached.

Britain's payment of her first $50,000,000 interest instalment on her debt to us, following Reginald McKenna's emphatic declaration that Britain could and would pay us all she owed us, has strengthened confidence in sterling exchange.

Gratifying progress is being made in reducing the danger of a coal famine. Production and deliveries are improving, and prices, at least in some quarters, have declined quite sharply.

* * *

Were a boom engineered this Winter or next Spring it would probably be short lived, and it certainly would bring in its wake consequences disastrous alike to those who ill-advisedly sought to fan it, to labor, to the general public, and even to the foreign countries doing active business with us.

This is pre-eminently a time for prudence, for moderation, for farsightedness.

If these common sense virtues be generally exercised, business should steadily, if somewhat slowly, move toward reasonably good times.

TRANSCONTINENTAL GRANTED INJUNCTION

Transcontinental Oil Company has obtained injunction restraining State of Texas from enforcing payment of oil taxes recently levied against the company. The suit was brought to test constitutionality of the State oil tax law. The court, however, ruled that the company should deposit with the State Treasurer the amount of taxes asked for pending final decision by Mexican Supreme Court.

STATE ST. NOTES

HORNBLOWER & WEEKS—Market acts well within our idea of its normal developments. Its strongest feature is that new points of strength are developed every day.

WESTINGHOUSE ELECTRIC has received orders for $600,000 worth of electric locomotives, five for New Haven and four for Norfolk & Western. There are now 105 Westinghouse locomotives on New Haven.

HOULTON, Me., will receive proposals until 10:30 p. m. October 19, for a $50,000 highway loan, dated October 1, 1922, and maturing in each of years 1923 to 1927 inclusive.

INTERNATIONAL PAPER—Consumption is running close to production.

INVINCIBLE OIL is among issues on which a dividend declaration is looked for.

ADMITTED TO Boston Stock Exchange list: $4,000,000 Seville-Biltmore Hotel Corp. first 7½s 1937, when issued.

POND CREEK COAL is expected to show a record output this year. It is expected dividend requirements will be earned three times over.

MALDEN will be in market until 7:30 p. m. Wednesday, Oct. 18, to receive bids on $200,000 notes, dated Oct. 20, payable April, 1923.

HAYDEN STONE & CO. say: "We doubt very much it we shall again return to anything like low level witnessed two years ago; but it is not at all improbable that decline next year or two in prices of highest grade bonds might offset large proportion of amount received in interest during that time."

KELLY-SPRINGFIELD has been inactive for some time, but is making money and running full, and Street expects stock to have move sometime this year.

COPPER RANGE is selling its September output and in view of fact that it takes from two to three weeks to convert Lake ore into pure copper, can be seen virtually all sold up on its metal.

ISLAND CREEK COAL stockholders anticipate another extra dividend in December, since stronger coal market has effect early cut in output. Earnings hold up to better proportion than production.

HUNT, ELLIS & CO. cite Steel's unfilled tonnage as bullish and say: "Regardless of various reasons for increase, it denotes volume which augurs well for operations throughout winter, not alone in steel trade but throughout all industry."

PRICES ARE STEADY IN LONDON MARKET

Prices were steady in London, consols 57⅝, British War loans 3½s, 85⅝; 5s, 100⅜; 4½s, 97; 4s 100⅝; funding 4s 85¾; French 5s, 36; Russian 5½s, 7⅞; 4s, 7⅝; all 1913 issue 1. Resumption of interest payment caused Grand Trunk Pacific debentures to be steady at 48. Rio Tinto, 25, up ¼.

STERLING DEMAND QUOTATION FIRM

Sterling demand was firm at $4.43. Other demands were: France, .751; lire, .0419; Belgian francs, .0693½; marks, .00625; drachmas, .0263; Swiss francs, .1847; guilders, .3884; pesetas, .1527; Sweden kronen, .2672; Norway, .182; Denmark, .1891.

U. S. STEEL AT FRESH HIGH FOR YEAR

New York Market Turns Spotty With Setbacks for Speculative Favorites

The New York market turned spotty in late trading, after a strong start, with setbacks in a number of speculative favorites. U. S. Steel opened at a new high for the year, up 1⅜ at 111⅜, and continued strong all day. Money renewed at 4½, then offered to 5 per cent.

Besides U. S. Steel, new highs were made for 1922 in Reynolds Tobacco B, Timken Roller Bearing, Texas Gulf Sulphur, Southern Railway preferred, National Biscuit, Continental Can and Iron Products.

New York Central touched its previous high of par and ⅝.

Brooklyn Rapid Transit lifted 2⅜ at 19.

In the wave of profit-taking in the early afternoon losses of 2 to more than 4 points appeared in Standard Oil of New Jersey, Pan-American A and B, Mex Pete, General Electric, Studebaker, Freeport and Baldwin.

Atchison reached a new high on the move, at 107⅜, on accumulation based on expectation that the road's oil properties may be segregated as Southern Pacific's were.

Chesapeake & Ohio also went to a new high for the current advance, at 75½, reflecting belief that earnings at annual rate of $12 a share suggest higher dividend in the near future.

Old 4½ U. S. Bonds Off in Heavy Selling

Announcement that the government's offering of 4¼ per cent. loan had been oversubscribed more than three times caused a heavy selling of the old 4½ per cent. bonds, losses ranging from 22 to 30 points. Liberty 3½s were strong, rising 14 points.

The rest of the list was irregular. In the principal group Japanese 4s and Czecho-Slovakian 8s moved to higher ground, while Cuban Republic 4½s dropped nearly a point.

The only noteworthy features in the industrial group were a point rise in Kresge B, 2¾ in Gulf States A and a drop of 1⅛ points in Marland Oil 7⅛s.

PASSENGER TRAFFIC ON PENN INCREASED

Northwestern region of Pennsylvania Railroad handled daily average of 14,436 loaded and empty cars in the first thirteen days of October, or exactly the daily average of September. Passenger traffic continues to increase, 23% extra wheelage having been used the first ten days of this month, with dining cars and coaches in proportional numbers.

B. & O. RESUMPTION DOUBTED BY BANKERS

Doubt is expressed in banking circles that Baltimore & Ohio is likely to resume dividends on its common stock this year for the sake of keeping its bonds legal for savings bank investment. Combined effects of the coal and shopmen's strike seriously cut down earnings in July and August.

MEXICAN SEABOARD GETS 16,000 BARRELS

Production in Toteco oil pool in 24 hours ended 7 a. m. October 14 was 12,000 barrels, with 53,000 were for Gulf Oil, 23,000 for Mexican Petroleum and 16,000 for Mexican Seaboard.

POWER TRANSMISSION VIA AIR IS FORECAST

Success of a sixteen-hour test of electron tubes in place of large alternators in transmitting wireless telegraph messages across the Atlantic from the Radio Corporation of America plant at Rocky Point, L. I., has led Dr. E. F. W. Alexanderson, chief engineer of corporation and inventor of alternates, to predict that transmission of power from Niagara to New York through air by means of the tubes was a possibility of the future.

FREIGHT LOADINGS SET A NEW RECORD

American Railway Association reports 589,098 cars loaded with merchandise and miscellaneous freight in week ending September 30, the greatest number loaded in history of American railroads. Total was 36,736 larger than corresponding week last year and 29,061 more than the same week of 1920.

RAIL GROUP IS STRONG IN BOSTON

Most of the railroad group advanced in a strong Boston market.

Boston & Maine rose 1¾, at 23¾; New Haven 2, at 32¾, and Boston & Maine Class C 2, at 50.

Boston & Maine Class A 34, Boston Elevated at 85 and U. S. Smelting preferred at 45½ all yielded a point in late trading. Carson Hill Gold, off 6¾, at 6¾, was a new year's low.

Waldorf added 1¾, at 34, and Eastern Steamship 1¾, at 35¾.

American Telephone rights were more active and a shade higher.

Both Waltham Watch issues started higher. The common added ½ to 19¾ and the preferred ½ at 26, both then went back.

United Fruit rose 2¾ at 155. Ventura Oil was up ⅝ at 23⅝.

National Leather rose ⅛ at 3, and Swift & Co. ½ at 109. Swift International chipped ½ at 22¾, and Connor Stores the same at 24.

KU KLUX FLAYED AT PALESTINE FUND RALLY

Officials and members of the "Ku Klux Klan" were branded as cowards as well as bullies because of their attempts to stir up religious and racial strife, by Colonel Josiah Wedgewood, vice-president of the British Labor party, in an address at Faneuil Hall in connection with the opening of the campaign for the Palestine Foundation Fund here.

Colonel Wedgewood said that organizations similar in purpose to the "Ku Klux Klan" existed in nearly every country in Europe. Their specialty, the colonel said, was "lynching Jews."

"They all work in different manner," he said, "some of them openly advertising murder, others working their ends by slander. The "Ku Klux Klan" is the only one, though, that hides its identity under a mask and gown."

URGES REBUILDING.

In urging the need for rebuilding Palestine as a home for the homeless Jews of Europe, Colonel Wedgewood said there are many who must do the rebuilding are the Jews themselves.

"You have got to pour into the land your own good money," he said. "It is going to be a sad day if it ever becomes apparent that the Jews cannot or will not rebuild Palestine."

"They are dealing with the British people, he said, "and they have behind them the British who must do the rebuilding are the Jews themselves.

"You have got to pour into the land your own good money," he said. "It is going to be a sad day if it ever becomes apparent that the Jews cannot or will not rebuild Palestine."

"They are dealing with the British people, he said, "and they have behind them the British labor movement. It is perfectly true that Great Britain needs the Jews in Palestine, but the Jews also need Great Britain."

DRIVE STARTS TODAY.

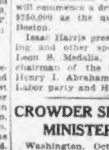
Colonel Wedgewood's visit to America is to enlist the support of American workmen here in the Palestine homeland movement. His said that British labor was acting solely in the interests of international justice.

The Palestine Foundation Fund will commence a drive today to raise $250,000 as the quota for Greater Boston.

Isaac Harris presided at the meeting and other speakers were Dr. Leon S. Medalia, Max Schoolman, chairman of the fund in Boston; Henry I. Abrahams of the Boston Labor party and Harris L. Saligman.

CROWDER SLATED FOR MINISTER TO CUBA

Washington, Oct. 16.—Persistent reports that Major-General E. H. Crowder will shortly be appointed United States Minister to Cuba to succeed Gen. Enoch H. Crowder, from a source close to the administration of President Harding.



Gen. Crowder.

General Crowder is nearing the retirement age of army officer, and he is universally declared to be the logical man for the post. His return to Washington at this time, coincident with the return of the Cuban Minister to the United States, Dr. Carlos Manuel de Cespedes, give color to the reports.

CHICAGO LABOR BACKS STAND OF HEARST

Chicago, Oct. 16.—The Illinois State Council of United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, in convention at Rockford, unanimously indorsed in toto the stand of William Randolph Hearst that property cannot be restored in the United States by wage reductions.

The resolution was presented by Henry Jenson, president of the Chicago Carpenters' District Council, and was signed by W. K. Brown, president, and Louis Bullinger, secretary of the State council, which has a membership of 31,000.

A similar resolution was presented before the Carpenters' District Council of Chicago two weeks ago and unanimously indorsed. This council is the central body of thirty-seven local unions, having a total membership of 20,000.

One Map for All Nations

Later, Unity of Language, Law, Government, Religion

Copyright, 1922, Star Co.

Eventually, we shall have one language all over the earth, also one kind of laws, one kind of education, one universal transportation, telegraph and telephone system, etc., and even one religion.

What the universal language will be, or where the Capitol of "The United States of Earth" will be located, nobody knows. Some think the language will be English. Perhaps it will be, but not any English that we could speak or recognise.

Many have thought that Constantinople is the natural Capitol of the earth. But that was suggested probably by limited Mediterranean vision. For all we know the future great Congress may assemble on the glass-enclosed deck of an airship ten miles up to be free from disturbances on the surface, and able at night to study the stars and take messages from them through a clear atmosphere.

Universal world unity is far off, as far as we are from civilization. But here's a FIRST step.

The civilized nations of the world are making a map of the world to be the same EVERYWHERE, useful and easily understood everywhere. Each nation is to map out its own lands, and all the maps will be drawn to the same scale. The entire earth globe on which we live will be divided into 1,642 sections. Each section will have its number. A man could buy one map and with it find his way around the earth. It will take the United States ten or twelve years more to finish its side of the map. That's an interesting step toward civilization.

Sheep's Blood May Save You

Blood Is the Disease Destroyer

Copyright, 1922, Star Co.

To those that get it the 400 per cent. Standard Oil dividend is probably more important than the size of the Milky Way or the depth of the Grand Canyon, but here's a piece of news that might be more valuable to those gentlemen than the stock dividend news.

A Frenchman has found a way to transfer the blood of animals to the veins of human beings. The thing was thought to be impossible. In all experiments tried, the serum of animal blood destroyed the corpuscles of human blood. But Dr. Cruchet, with a 10 per cent. solution of citrate of soda in the animal blood, injects it into human veins, and after a little upset there comes wonderful improvement.

If the thing proves a real success it may conquer pernicious senaemia, and help to conquer 99 per cent. of all diseases. For PLENTY OF BLOOD, plus cheerfulness and nervous force, will conquer almost anything.

The Frenchman uses sheep's blood, because it is plentiful. But other kinds will do.

The African chief would demand lion's blood, believing that it would make him braver. When savages kill a lion the chief eats the heart to get the lion's courage. But he doesn't get it. One red corpuscle is as good as another to carry strength into a body. One white corpuscle is as good as another to fight the disease germ.

Gulf Stream Mystery

Could We Charge England So Much a Quart for Hot Water?

Copyright, 1922, Star Co.

Many years ago, twenty-five years at least, this humble writer suggested a bloodless, warless plan for influencing our English friends.

It was suggested that a gigantic mole be constructed, with movable doors, to control the flow of the Gulf Stream, northeast toward England.

If we had trouble with England, instead of building warships and fighting, we should shut off the Gulf Stream and say: "Now freeze or make peace."

That was intended to be humorous. But lo and behold! there are complaints in England, in Paris and throughout Europe because the Florida East Coast Railway has done a great deal of filling in that might possibly interfere with Gulf Stream outlets from the Gulf of Mexico.

There is doubt as to the value of the Gulf Stream in supplying heat to England and the west coast of Europe. Some scientists say the prevailing winds, carrying eastward the latent heat stored up by the ocean, supply the warmth.

Others say "Yes, but the winds gather much of that warmth from the hot waters of the Gulf Stream."

Birth Control for Asia

With Our Blessing and Best Wishes

Copyright, 1922, Star Co.

Mrs. Margaret Sanger, advocate of birth control, has visited China and Japan, teaching her belief that the number of children a woman brings into the world should be decided by her, and not by masculine lawmakers or earnest clergymen.

In this country the idea is that the more children there are in a family the more chances of having a good one, and birth control is discouraged. Mrs. Sanger says Japan and China welcome birth control.

Statesmen in other countries will be glad to know that. For when Asia learns to keep alive its great crop of babies by modern methods, raising 90 per cent. of them instead of 30 per cent., the problem of earth's dominion will become acute.

We know, of course, that Providence has arranged it all, millions of years ago, in perfect safety. We know that this earth will never roll through space diseased with excessive population, human inhabitants eating each other. But there would be a general feeling of relief in white countries if Mrs. Sanger could persuade the yellow countries to limit the baby crop.

The Thoroughbreds

The Story of One Tailor

By Dr. Charles Fleischer

ACCORDING to the song, "It takes nine tailors to make a man—so the ninth of a man is he."

But here is a tailor who is trying to be the whole of a man himself. His letterhead tells his modest business.

Part of what he writes is personal, revealing too much of his domestic affairs. But we reproduce without change that which is fit for publication:

"Having read yours from the 19 September in The Boston American in regard the matter from Mr. Clarke's opinion of life. I thank you for adding more to my joy of pleasure. Since a few weeks I also commence to live a life as it should be.

"Friends congratulates me for my self-happiness, all I would like to ask you—the kind books I should buy and read to enjoy life."

Evidently a "foreigner," you say. Yes, as all of us are—coming and going and moving about in mystery.

But just as evidently this little "foreign" tailor is trying to become a fit citizen of America and the world.

And "whence" and the "whither" are matters of speculation to many of us. Origin and destiny we humans are foolish to fight about.

What counts most is what we do with opportunity in the present moment of the Eternal Now, and how much we do to make ourselves at home in this particular spot of the Universal Here.

If anything that the present writer can put into this column of print enables a single reader to get more satisfaction out of life, that is enough to justify his existence.

Whenever we give life, we gain life.

Do not spend a moment's sympathy upon this Boston tailor's struggle to find words to express his feelings. Herein, too, he is like the rest of us—breathless, dumb, seeking vainly to utter what is deepest in us.

If his sentences were perfectly formed and all his words correctly spelled, he would still be as ignorant as any Harvard professor and quite as unable to give voice to the divine impulse that mystifies man.

As to the books that the tailor—and You—should buy to read. The best book is the Volume of Life which you buy with Experience.

That is the best of books for tailors—and others—trying to be Men.

Heart Balm

Editor Boston American:

It makes one disgusted these days to hear and read so much about the so-called "heart balms," alienations of affections and God only knows what. The prices for this nonsense are ranging from $10,000 up to $100,000. Is it not a high time for our courts to put a stop to it? Of course, a man who steals another's wife is a most contemptible cur and a thief of a worse calibre. But, to tell the truth, can such a wrong be straightened out in dollars and cents?

Balanced Auto Speed

Editor Boston American:

Arthur Brisbane advises one not to hit anything when going sixty miles an hour.

Barney Oldfield's racing car, going at that speed, hit a tree recently, and the heavy chassis was crumpled up like an accordion, everything smashed. "The marvel is that one man, the driver, came out alive."

The reason this man was not killed was on account of the chassis of the car balancing nicely with the sixty-mile speed and the sudden stopping. That is, the chassis became a shock absorber of the right flexibility, and till it crumpled all jar was prevented. Had he been driving thirty miles and the chassis had not crumpled, the effect of the jar would have thrown the driver through the windshield, and he would have been crumpled up instead of the car. So learn the crumpling strength of your machines. Then when you see a tree you cannot avoid speed up to the balancing point. So the marvelous part was the fact that he just happened to hit the right speed before hitting the tree. J. T. BUCKWALTER.

Orphans Enjoyed It

Editor Boston American:

I want to offer you my warm thanks for extending an invitation to our boys to partake of the good time you so successfully prepared for the orphan boys and girls of Boston last week. Both the boys and their teachers were delighted, and they feel more grateful to you than words can express. You are, therefore, to be felicitated on your success.

Like the Higher Ape

Editor Boston American:

It's a good thing that no species of monkeys or apes which Mr. Clifford mentioned in the October 8 issue of the Boston American, as having examined, had either mustaches or finger prints with the lines arranged in a swirls. If the monkeys and apes had no differences from man he would not have been able to distinguish them from man. As for Mr. Clifford's conclusion from these facts, that mustaches and swirled finger prints class men apart from apes, man whom he quotes as having been created in the image and likeness of God, it would follow that those women not having mustaches were created more in the image of a monkey. I have also examined monkeys and apes and have had one for a pet and I have observed that in all fundamental character, morphological and psychological, such as the arrangement of the teeth, and the whole skeleton frame, and in the matter of instincts, man is not so far different from a higher ape as a Newfoundland dog is from a poodle. THE HELPING HAND

Offers a Good Home

Editor Boston American:

Having read the sad story you published about Miss Elizabeth Feeney of Bridgewater, would say that I am alone in the world and was struck by her tender years, and I have a nice, clean home and am a respectable young woman, so that I could give her a good home and environment. I should like to see her before I decide to take her in. I would try to make her happy with kindness and good advice. MRS. F. A. B.

ED. NOTE—Mrs. B. has been notified where she can reach the girl, in order to put into effect her noble intention.

Another Carriage Given

Editor Boston American:

I have a large baby carriage which I will be very glad to give to anyone who needs it. Call at any time. A. E. R.

ED. NOTE—The above carriage has been given to Mrs. E. C.

Who Needs a Crib?

Editor Boston American:

I have a baby's crib in good condition which I would like to give to a needy mother.

MRS. J. L.

Editor Boston American:

I have nine children and the youngest one is one year old and is deformed so that he will never walk. I haven't a carriage for him and he is very heavy and I would be much obliged if one of the good readers would help me.

Spite Vented From Grave

By Winifred Black

"TO Mary, my wife, I give and bequeath One Dollar and a Half, on condition that she takes it and buys a good manlia rope and hangs herself."

That's what they read at the "will reading" after the funeral the other day. Pleasant gentleman—the man who made that will, wasn't he? And what sort of a woman was Mary, his wife, to live for thirty-seven years with such a creature and then go to the funeral in deep mourning and act as if the very foundations of her life had been swept away, when Father died?

What sort of people are they who can't get rid of their spite while they are alive, but must reach out of the grave to slap some poor creature in the face with an insult.

There was the celebrated author who died not so long ago.

He left a will in which he said:

"Whatever money or property my two children get after I am gone, they will get if they come and ask my present wife for it. And they must bring their mother, my first wife, with them when they come to do the asking."

And people spoke of this person as a kindly, genial, generous, well-meaning creature—when he was alive and wrote of bluff sea captains and bold buccaneers.

What a coward he really must have been!

What had his two poor, harmless children done that he should reach out of his coffin and use them as a scourge to beat a devil's tattoo upon the defenceless shoulders of the poor little woman who had once loved him enough to go down into the valley of the shadow of death and bring his children to him in her trembling arms?

What did that second wife do with that will? I don't remember—do you?

I hope she took it and tore it into fragments and threw it into the fire and called the first wife and the children to her home and divided the property with them honestly and generously.

I don't see how she could ever spend a happy hour after that if she didn't do some such thing.

What a sneak a man is who isn't satisfied with the revenge that life gives him, but must try to "get even" when the grass is beginning to grow over his poor, mean, spiteful, little heart.

Wills—how people lie and steal and smirk and pretend just to get mentioned in a rich man's will.

SEEN AND HEARD

ONE of the longest bills of exceptions ever filed in the Middlesex Superior Criminal Court is that prepared by ATTORNEY WILLIAM H. GARLAND, counsel for ATTORNEY GEORGE T. PERRY of Somerville, who was convicted for conspiracy and receiving stolen property some time ago. The bill, which is soon to be argued before the Supreme Court, contains 289 typewritten pages.

A mighty man is CAPT. MIKE BROPHY of the crack fishing schooner Yankee. Standing on the rail of the Yankee, one hand gripping the shroud, the other sunk in a capacious trouser pocket, his hard-boiled hat tilted forward, and rumbling out anathema upon the Gloucester fishing folk who conspired to keep the Mayflower from shooting her heels to the Canadian Bluenose, Capt. Mike is a figure to inspire awe.

The walls of DEPUTY COLLECTOR ELI PERRY'S office on the first floor of the Custom House are literally covered with framed photographs of merchant vessels and yachts of every description, all of which were visitors to Boston harbor at various times during the past half century. The collection was made by the late WILLIAM DEVENS, a customs officer over a period of forty years and presented to Mr. Perry prior to the death of Mr. Devens.

DEPUTY COMMISSIONER WILLIAM P. LONG of the Boston Park and Recreation Department is back on the job following a lay-off due to a sprained ankle. Billy's famous smile did not leave him during his illness. He is a thorough optimist. The "gloom" have no show in Billy's office.

When JACK McCARTHY, well-known sporting man, heard that the Giants had won the fourth game and the World Series he made one of those witty remarks which are characteristic of him. Said Jack, "Frazee will have to develop some good ball-players to send to the Yanks in order to give the Giants a little competition."

LYNDA KEARNS and MURIEL MacSWINEY have visited a "bobber" and had their hair bobbed. The militant feminine Sinn Feiners have also adopted the long, clinging silken gowns that bespeak the bou[illegible]s of Paris.

ALICE E. CRAM, candidate for State auditor, has sent out several thousand postcard photographs to voters with a clever sentence appealing for support. The sentence reads, "There are a million women in Massachusetts eligible to vote—elect one."

Of the 24,278 persons whose biographies appear in the latest edition of "Who's Who in America" three live in Somerville, IRVING G. NOYES, botanist; WILLIAM H. HILLS, editor, and CONGRESSMAN CHARLES L. UNDERHILL.

GARRETT P. SERVISS ON ORIGIN OF THOUGHTS

By Garrett P. Serviss

"My wife and I have received higher thoughts by studying your articles. Due to the above our foolish old family quarrels are a thing of the past. You have given us food for thought, and now, instead of quarrels, we have discussion. Please decide this one:

"The wife says a thought is a material impression; I say a thought comes from the ether, the same as the radio. Man's mind, through concentration, becomes in a higher state of vibration, or is tuned to a higher pitch, and he is then able to receive the higher vibrations or thoughts from the ether, sent out by Omniscient God.—ELIZABETH and Irwin H. Marcus Hook, Pa."

I SUPPOSE that "the wife" means that thoughts are only engendered by impressions received through the senses, as thoughts of trees, fields, hills, perspective distances, colors, etc., which come through the eyes, and thoughts having an emotional basis, which are awakened through the ears by musical sounds, and so on with the other senses.

It is true that one can go very far in explaining the origin of thought by such considerations. But this explanation is purely materialistic, reducing thought to mere nervous responses to physical stimuli, and thus shutting out all reference to spiritual inception.

It is the sort of explanation that is so interestingly illustrated by Edgar A. Poe in his analysis of the thought-reading power of one of his detective heroes—an illustration borrowed by Conan Doyle in his "Sherlock Holmes" stories. The fact brought out in such explanations is simply that thoughts follow one another in a linked chain, which may turn in the most unexpected directions.

From stubbing his toe one may be led to contemplation of the universe, every step in the series of related thoughts being clearly traceable by careful recollection. It is very interesting and instructive to watch the birth of thoughts in one's own mind when they spring up by this process of unconscious association.

One may surround himself in his room with thought-suggesting objects, whose stimulating influence can be evoked by simply glancing around the walls. I speak from experience, for I have on the walls of my writing room a great number of small prints, most of which are portraits of famous personages of all ages, while some are pictures of various objects.

If thought grows trivial, or fails, glance at one of these faces. When I meet Mr. Lincoln's great book some one expression of his power absorbs my attention; but when I glance at him on the wall the whole Newton shines there, spreading waves of thought.

But I have had space to touch on only one side of this subject. The other side presents its more spiritual aspect. If we have within us something which is superior to and survives the material body that may be the factor which, out of crude impressionistic materials, forms the higher product of abstract thought.

—Says Medbury—

One Duck Hunter Was Such a Bum Shot That He Saved Money by Using Blank Cartridges

Duck season has opened and this is good news to everybody except the ducks.

Ordinarily the ducks wouldn't care, but now and then a hunter doesn't look where he's shooting and hits one of them.

One guy was such a bum shot that he saved money by using blank cartridges.

He got so angry one morning that he threw his gun away. His rifle bounced and hit a duck right on the head. That was the first time he ever killed anything.

He had a hunting dog, and every time he fired a shot the dog would look around in the brush for the duck. Finally the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals got after him for making a fool out of the dog.

If a man has a well trained dog he can go duck hunting without a gun and come home with the limit.

Whenever the dog sees a duck lying on the ground he picks it up. He's not supposed to stop and ask questions.

The average dog is a vegetarian. His master is such a bum shot that he never gets a chance to taste any meat.

One hunter had a dog which knew almost as much as he did, but he never told anybody, because he figured he might want to sell the dog some day.

Some hunters go out at 3 or 4 o'clock in the morning and figure on shooting a couple of ducks for breakfast, but an optimist is a man who takes some ham and eggs along with him.

He might have duck for breakfast providing he postponed breakfast until 2 or 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

But one guy was so determined to have duck that he ate a couple of the decoys.

The average man figures he's a good hunter just because he wins a cigar in a shooting gallery.

Some shooting galleries have real ducks, but most of the ducks go back to the marshes where there's more excitement.

The only thing that ever kills a duck in a shooting gallery is old age.

Still, a hunter won a Thanksgiving turkey last year by shooting. The only trouble was he had to shoot seventeen dollars and a half worth of cartridges, and then comes home with one duck, he doesn't wonder that the restaurants charge a dollar and a half for a small portion.
